Hundreds Flock to Public Bath House

Municipal Bath House Open Today

BATH HOUSE AT THE MERRIMACK RIVER SWIMMING POOL

The municipal bath house on Pawtucket boulevard was opened today, with attendants on hand, including life guards, to watch over all bathers. The heat of the day sent hundreds to the river pool this afternoon and practically every bathing suit was engaged. The formal opening of the house will not come until Thursday, when the Lowell Ad club will mark it with appropriate ceremonies, including a band concert and water sports and races open to children of all ages.

If tomorrow's weather is similar to that of today the bath house will be open afternoon and evening and, of course, daily thereafter with the advent of the regular season.

Mrs. Tesmer Identifies Bandit Who Led Double Life as Man and Woman, as Husband's Slayer

CHICAGO, June 19.—Woman or man, Mrs. Frances Carrick, also known as Fred G. Thompson, was identified today by Mrs. Richard C. Tesmer as the supposed woman bandit who shot and killed her husband in a holdup on June 5.

First supposed to be a man disguised as a woman, the prisoner was declared by Frank Carrick, who with two others, was arrested with the accused to have lived as his wife for fourteen years.

Known as Mrs. Carrick, the suspect in the opinion of the police led a double life as both man and woman, masquerading as one or the other at different times.

The suspect was identified by the smiling expression which Mrs. Tesmer said the bandit assumed until almost the instant of firing the shot that killed Tesmer. But the prisoner has brown eyes, while the widow said the killer's eyes were blue, but today she said she probably had been mistaken. She positively declared, however, that Mrs. Carrick, or Thompson, was the killer.

Carrick, Miss Marie Clark and a man known only as John Doe also were taken into custody.

When the police raided the flat they found a quantity of women's apparel, a number of wigs and a loaded revolver. The murder suspect's male name was obtained from an automobile identification card. The police declared the disclosure of the prisoner's double identity may help to clear up a number of robberies and other crimes.

BILLERICA WOMAN SAYS BURLY POLICEMAN HUSBAND HAS VERY BAD DISPOSITION

Roland Francis Sanborn, of Billerica, who stands six feet, seven and one-half inches in height and weighs 250 pounds, and is employed as a Boston & Maine police officer, used to take great delight in throwing lighted matches at his wife, Mrs. Sanborn told Judge McCoole, of Norfolk, during the trial of her uncontested suit for divorce in the second session of probate court in the local county court house this morning.

But that was only an incident, Mrs. Sanborn testified. She said that his chief characteristic, which he began married in July of 1922, was an ugly disposition. The climax came in November, four months after they were married, when without provocation he assaulted her and fractured some of her ribs.

That ended the honeymoon, and

LOWELL TELEPHONE OPERATORS ARE NOT CONTEMPLATING A STRIKE VOTE

Pres. Grace Fuller of the Lowell telephone operators affiliated with the International Brotherhood of Telephone Workers in a statement today, asserted that her organization 100 per cent strong, was not contemplating a strike vote, and she personally knew nothing of the question being voted in Boston, in regard to a walkout. "The Lowell operators are not considering any request for shorter hours or more pay," was the emphatic reply of the president in regard to a query as to whether the local union was planning any concerted action with other members of the association of New England offices.

AMERICAN STATE BANK OF KANSAS FORCED TO CLOSE ITS DOORS

Action Followed Discovery of Defalcation of $1,500,000 by Phillip A. Drumm, Cashier—Latter Used Wichita School Bonds to Float Personal Loans for Investment in Oil Ventures

WICHITA, Kas., June 19.—The American State bank, one of the strongest state banks in Kansas, closed its doors early this morning following the discovery of defalcation of $1,500,000 by Phillip A. Drumm, cashier, the Wichita Clearing House association announced.

The cashier used the bank's funds to invest heavily in oil properties bank officers stated. Drumm confessed according to clearing house officials. The American State bank is 21 years old and has a capital of $150,000. Drumm has been with the in-

RELATIVES CONTEST WILL OF THE LATE JAMES McDERMOTT

Motions to Frame Issues for Jury Trial Argued Before Judge McCoole in Probate Court—Nieces and Nephews the Contestants

Motions to frame issues for a jury trial were argued before Judge McCoole of Norfolk in the second session of probate court here today in the contest over the will of the late James H. McDermott, who for nearly a half century was an undertaker in this city. The amount of the estate in dispute is estimated at $50,000.

Attorney James E. O'Donnell appeared as counsel for the following nieces and nephews of the deceased, who are seeking the break the will: Annie Gray, James H. Howard, Chas Howard and Joseph Howard of Lowell; Walter J. Howard of Lynn, Mrs. James Hall of Nashua, Mrs. Fred Bastian of Salem and Mrs. William White of Boston.

In his argument Attorney O'Donnell informed the court that Mr. McDermott had died within three months at the age of about 50 years. He was born across the water but lived the greater part of his life in Lowell and

SHIP'S DOCTOR IN CUSTODY OF LIQUOR ON FOREIGN CRAFT

Treasury Officials Explain Latest Move —Doctor on Foreign Ship Will Be Given Custody, in American Waters of Such Liquor as He is Willing to Certify is for "Medicinal Purposes"

WASHINGTON, June 19—A part of the mystery which has surrounded the latest treasury move in the ship liquor controversy, was dispelled today by a declaration in official circles that hereafter the ship's doctor on a foreign ship will be given custody, in American waters of such liquor as he is willing to certify is for "medicinal purposes."

Although no one at the treasury would discuss the development in detail, it was assumed that under this policy it will be possible for foreign ships to bring in wine rations for their crews, under seal, provided the doctor in charge chooses to regard the intoxicants so carried as "medicinal."

A letter sent yesterday by Secretary Mellon to the public health service constitutes a construction of medicinal provisions of the law and makes sure that all foreign laws requiring ships to carry medicinal liquors will be complied with.

By those instructions, a ship's doctor may make a sworn statement as to the liquors they deem necessary for medicinal purposes, and public health offices will not dispute their opinion.

The letter is not regarded at the treasury as changing any section of the regulations as recently promulgated to carry out the findings of the supreme court. It is conceded, however, that it will work for elasticity in the regulatory provisions.

NOT TOO HOT FOR FUR NECKPIECES

No fur coats were seen on the street today, although occasionally one ran across a dainty miss sporting a marten or opossum choker, one of Dame Fashion's edicts for the summer, no matter how hot. The thermometer in the square touched 92 degrees at 1 o'clock.

These fur neckpieces, by the way, do not seem to have the depressing effect one might anticipate. Quite the opposite, for one is conscious of a considerable degree of envy as he looks at one, envy of the person who is able to wear it and still retain an atmosphere of comfort and sang-froid, with a snap of the fingers as the only comment upon sky-high temperatures.

However, with or without these snappy contraptions of sleek fur, the day was hot enough for any lover of summer and except from an elevated position, such as our office window, for instance, whatever breeze there was seemed sultry and of little relief.

MUNICIPAL COUNCIL TO ACT ON QUESTION OF SALARIES FOR ELECTION BOARD MEMBERS

The ordinance calling for the establishment of salaries of members of the election commission at $2000 each per year, unanimously ordered advertised by the city council two weeks ago following a favorable report from the committee on salaries, will be before the body for action tonight.

On the mayor's desk is a resolution adopted by the council calling for an appropriation of $3800 to cover salary increases contemplated for the election commissioners, who now are serving also as members of the listing board, and Mayor Donovan said today he does not contemplate taking any action upon it, inasmuch as the city law department has questioned the legality of such a form of supplementary budget.

In connection with the ordinance it

FIREMAN WITH GAS MASK CHECKS AMMONIA FUMES

It took a member of the protective company of the fire department, equipped with a gas mask, to check escaping ammonia fumes at the Saco-Lowell plant this morning. A valve of the ammonia plant accidently opened and after several shop employes had been driven back in attempts to close it, a telephone call to fire headquarters brought a protective company member, who walked into the poisonous fumes and shut off the flow.

COLLAPSE OF ROADWAY

Heavy Ice Wagon Breaks Through Macadam Paving in Maple Street

A heavily loaded double hitch ice wagon, owned by the Daniel Gage Co. and in charge of Minot Secord, in turning the corner from Autumn into Maple street shortly after 8.30 this morning, struck a weak spot in the roadway dropping the left rear wheel through the road bed up to the hub. The quick action of Secord and Roy Angove, who was driving at the time, in unharnessing the horses prevented injuries to the animals and damage to the wagon.

CASE AGAINST CITY GOES TO THE JURY

The case of Lucian G. Holmes vs. the City of Lowell was given to the jury shortly before noon today, and court then took a recess until tomorrow morning. The finding of the jury will be sealed.

The suit was brought to determine the value of a parcel of land on the westerly side of Wilder street which the park commission seized and allowed the owner $700. This amount was not sufficient, hence the suit.

Attorney Fisher H. Pearson was counsel for the plaintiff and City Solicitor Patrick J. Reynolds appeared for the city.

START WORK ON HEALTH CAMP FOR CHILDREN

Health department officials today began the erection of five polling booths as the layout of the summer health camp for undernourished school children to be opened early in July on high land off Varnum avenue. The site is the same as that used so successfully last summer when the camp was operated for the first time with excellent results. Plumbers will begin work on a sanitary system at the camp tomorrow and within a week or so the entire equipment will be ready for use. A number of new cot beds will be purchased, as several of the ones used last year have been broken.

Dr. Francis A. Flinnegan, director of school hygiene, with nurses of his department, will be in charge of the camp, which will be divided into sessions of equal length for boys and girls.

AMHERST, June 19.—With the opinion expressed by members that no other way out of the present situation at Amherst college was possible than the removal of President Alexander Meiklejohn, the board of trustees went into its annual session today following a night in which a special committee of the board spent closeted with the president in an effort to reach a decision. It was intimated that a full statement would be made at the conclusion of the meeting. Neither President Meiklejohn nor members of the special committee would make any statement when the committee meeting adjourned at 2 o'clock this morning, but Dr. Meiklejohn reiterated the few words he said yesterday afternoon, that the outcome could not be much longer delayed.

ERUPTION OF MOUNT ETNA CONTINUES—50,000 HOMELESS

One Stream of Lava Now Threatening Giarre, a City of About 20,000 Inhabitants at Base of Volcano—Three Towns Wiped Out—Ashes, Stones and Cinders Darken Sun—Crater a Horrible Insatiable Monster

CATANIA, Italy, June 19.—(By the Associated Press) The eruption of Mount Etna continues unabated. One stream of lava is now threatening Giarre, a city of about 20,000 inhabitants at the base of the volcano and the population is beginning to leave.

About 50,000 persons have already been made homeless in the area surrounding Etna. The ashes, cinders and stones emitted by the volcano are so thick as to darken the sun, and the crater seems a horrible insatiable monster.

Professor Fonzi of the University of Catania has gone to Etna to ascertain whether a new crater opened on the eastern slope is that which was active in 1879.

Cardinal Francica-Nava, archbishop of Catania, has communicated to the clergy in the stricken area the faithful and paternal interest of the pontiff in the sufferings of the population. He has also received instructions to do all he can in relieving the refugees.

Three Towns Wiped Out

ROME, June 19.—(By the Associated Press) Gabriele Carnazza, Italian minister of public works, has gone to the devastated region around Mount Etna to assist in caring for the persons who have been made homeless by the mighty mountain's eruption.

Hope was expressed that Linguaglossa, which at one time yesterday appeared to be doomed by the lava stream, was out of danger. Three little towns—Piedilo, Pallamelata and Foro—have been completely wiped out.

Refugees are pouring into Catania from the little communities that lie almost in the shadow of the mountain, and the Catanians are doing their utmost to make the refugees comfortable. Some of those arriving from the menaced region last evening, reported a continuance of the earth shocks that announced the first great outpouring of lava.

Mount Vesuvius continues moderately active, emitting much steam and lava. This, it is remarked, is unusual for when Etna is active, Vesuvius is ordinarily quiet and vice versa.

Mount Vesuvius Active

LONDON, June 19—The Naples correspondent of the London Daily Mail ascended Mount Vesuvius last Saturday with Prof. Malladra, who lives in the observatory just below the cone. The men found that much smoke, steam and lava were active within the great crater, but the professor assured the correspondent the volcano was rapidly returning to normal after its recent activity. He said he did not expect any serious eruption for many years.

head of the telephone operators department of the International Electrical Workers, an organization entirely distinct from the International Telephone Workers. The former is associated with the American Federation of Labor. Miss O'Connor in statements attributed to her, states that the union is fighting for existence and not for higher wages and a seven hour day. The Telephone Workers association is condemned by Miss O'Connor who states that the organization is merely a tool of the company, and that it is aiding to break her union. President Fuller stated that no attempt had been made to intimidate the Lowell operators to show any discrimination toward the girls because they were affiliated with the union. "Lowell operators are satisfied with their working conditions," continues Miss Fuller. "There is no truth to the statement of Miss O'Connor that the international organization with which the Lowell operators are connected, is working to undermine the Electrical Workers association."

LEGIONAIRES OPPOSED

Local Post Members Do Not Want Lawrence Veterans' Bureau Discontinued

A resolution condemning the proposal of Dr. E. O. Crossman, head of the New England division of the Veterans' bureau in requesting National Director Hines to discontinue the veterans' sub-division office at Lawrence, was passed at the regular meeting of the American legion held last night in Memorial Auditorium. Members of Post 87 were emphatic in their denouncement of the plan to discontinue the Lawrence office which has 300 men in training and has given 1500 men medical attention.

According to the statements of Legion members, the Lawrence office is one place that the veterans of Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill and the intermediate smaller towns can get a square deal. The transfer of the office would save rental, but would entail a hardship on the veterans who would have to travel to Boston to have their claims settled. The clerical staff and the papers at the office would have to be transferred to Boston, entailing much expense and a general holdup of all claims in this section.

Capt. Thomas W. Doyle, formerly of Lowell and a member of the old Sixth Associates, now located at Fort Benning, Georgia, as a captain in the regular army, was introduced to the members of the post by Commander Joseph A. Molloy. The captain was given a vociferous demonstration by the members, many of whom were associated with him during the Spanish war, as he rose to speak. The speaker stated that he was much pleased with the activity of the Lowell post.

Plans were discussed for a "Navy day" outing at the Martin Luther grounds July, 15, the announced date of National Commander Alvin Owsley's visit to Lowell. It was proposed that legion members of the surrounding counties be invited to the affair, and to hold a program of sports and a dinner.

The national convention to be held in California and the state convention at Marblehead were discussed by the members. California expects to entertain 200,000 delegates at the national meeting of the legionnaires.

Proper respect to the flag was urged by the commander who asked the members to do all in their power to spread the gospel of proper respect. "The school children are the only salvation of the country in regard to paying tribute to the colors," said the legion head.

To Contest McDermott Will

had retired from active business about seven years ago.

The will offered for probate was made in July, 1919, but prior to 1919 he said Mr. McDermott had made a will entirely different than his last testament. In the latest will Mr. McDermott left nothing to his blood relations, but willed practically everything to his sister-in-law, Mrs. John McDermott, with whom he made his home at the time of his death.

Attorney O'Donnell further stated that in 1918 and in 1919 prior to the execution of the will, Mr. McDermott on several occasions manifested a complete lack of memory, and misunderstanding and confusion about important papers with which he had formerly been well versed; that he had been confused about streets in the vicinity of his home with which he was familiar, and that he had frequently inquired about persons whom he had known were dead.

He argued further that Mr. McDermott was feeble, mentally and physically, and that those in close contact with him took advantage of that condition and unduly influenced him in the disposition of his property by the will and by deeds. Further than that he said that the relatives with whom he had been very friendly had been prevented from seeing him, these relatives being the ones who were mentioned in the previous will.

Attorney John H. Coakley of Boston, who appeared for Mary White, another niece, said that his client was a daughter of a sister of the deceased, and that she had been prevented from seeing Mr. McDermott. One day, however, she met him on the street and he continually kept asking about her mother, whom he knew was dead.

Attorney J. J. Kerwin, counsel for the beneficiary under the will, argued strongly against a trial by jury, claiming that nothing definite had been introduced as to the identity of the ones alleged to have used influence. He presumed that the petitioners inferred such against Mrs. McDermott and her daughter, who is deaf and dumb. But it was nothing more than a mere suspicion in the minds of disappointed relatives, he said, and there should be something more convincing.

Attorney Kerwin argued that Mr. McDermott was of testamentory capacity up to within a few days of his death, that he even collected his rents, transacted his business and made out his income tax alone a few days before his death.

Mr. McDermott made his home with his sister-in-law and her family for 15 years, Attorney Kerwin said, and although several of his nieces and nephews lived in Lowell they never went to see him. As for Mrs. White, he declared that she had not called to see her uncle in 15 years.

The issue was clearly one for a single justice to decide Attorney Kerwin concluded, insofar as a trial by jury would eat heavily into the estate and there would be nothing left.

Judge McCoole took the matter under advisement.

loaded wagon began to settle, a large cake of ice weighing about 250 pounds slipped off into the road. Three men and a heavy jack were despatched to the scene from the Gage houses and after the ice and a half of ice had been removed, the wagon was raised. It was refilled with ice, and started off again on its route.

A hole about four feet long, three feet wide and at least four feet deep, was uncovered in the middle of the road after the wagon had been extricated. It looked as though rain water had undermined the surface strusture and when the heavy load passed over it, it gave way.

Residents who have lived in the vicinity for many years stated that during the winter it is practically impossible to drive a machine over this section of the road without getting stuck. The macadamized surface from Autumn street to Garham, on Maple, has the resemblance of a corrugated wash board, and it appears to be soft as putty. The area north of Maple street now used as a freight yard by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad was at one time a swamp and it is thought that seepage from the low area has something to do with the soft condition of the Maple street roadway.

TOOK BEST EFFORTS TO "DRY UP" BIG LINER

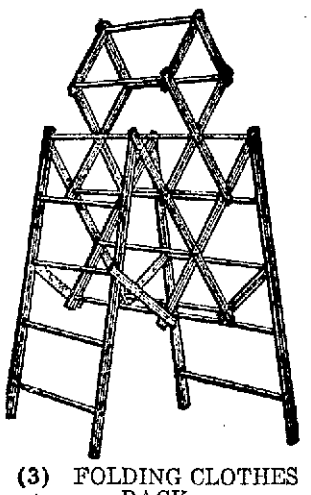

NEW YORK, June 19—The liner Majestic arrived today fro mCherbourg, bon dry, except for 26 gallons of brandy, required by British law for emergency medical use.

Although she had started with her usual supply of liquor and, in addition, private stocks which some pasengers had ordered in England, the entire supply was gone at 11.30 last night before the three mile limit was reached.

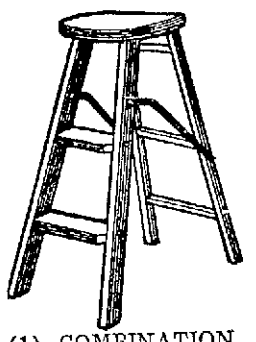

"It took the best efforts of the passengers to do it," said one ship's officer.

Women are said to be more adept at learning foreign languages than are men.

OLD TIME DANCING AND FAVOR PARTY

Surprise favors are in store for those who attend the old-time dancing and favor party in the Kasino tomorrow night. Elaborate plans have been made by the management to make everybody feel at home, and plenty of fun will be provided for all participants in the party. Suitable favors will be distributed and choicest dance music will be played by the artists connected with Campbell's orchestra.

The affair, according to present plans, should resemble a miniature mardi gras, not only in the distribution of fanciful head-gear, but also in the nature of noise-making instruments, including horns, bells and other disturbers of the peace. The floor has been newly polished and is in better condition than on any previous occasion this season, and a general good time is assured all who attend.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

A story interesting to both grown-ups and children, featuring Jackie Coogan, popular juvenile screen hero, in "Trouble," is the headliner at the Merrimack Square theatre the first of this week. The picture is packed full of interesting and amusing incidents which carry the audience along at an entertaining pace from start to finish.

Jackie is discovered hiding in a barrel after escaping from an orphanage which refused to allow him to keep his dog, by Officer Dugan, who noticed the hound's tail wagging through the slats of the barrel. Both are returned to the orphanage and kept as the home is to close in a short time. An auction of the inmates follows and the little star is purchased by a drunken plumber. Life is made miserable for the man's wife, the dog and the adopted "kid," by the husband who refuses to work. A sudden call for a plumber is made and as the man refused to heed the call, Jackie accepts the appeal, and by divers ways manages to get the heavy set of tools into the house.

The amateur plumber floods the bathroom and the cellar, and he is chased away by passersby who note the damage. The mistress arrives and presents him with a five dollar note, which he gives to his new adopted mother. The husband attempts to secure the bill and in the mixup he is knocked out by a well directed flower pot, thrown by the youngster plumber. The police enter during the melee and the husband is taken to the station and tried in court. The parents of the wife noting the details of the story in the newspaper, appear in court, at the trial and take their daughter, after the husband is handed a sentence of one year in jail. Jackie is taken along with the family to the country, making an ideal ending for the interesting story.

"Wonders of the Sea" is a thrilling picture of life in the depths of the ocean. "Pest of the Storm Country," is the comedy, and the News Weekly and Fun from the Press completes the bill.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

One of the most thrilling railroad stories ever filmed is "Westbound Limited," which is being shown at the B. F. Keith theatre this week. It is a real story of flesh and steel, based on the ordinary life of the railroad man and a tribute to his unswerving devotion to the service of the public. Besides the human interest theme of the play, there are several gripping scenes which demand recognition. The reproduction of a disastrous train wreck, in which two locomotives figure in a head-on collision makes the audience gasp and wonder how such a realistic reproduction is effected through the medium of the camera and the art of the director.

The star of the picture is Ralph Lewis, who portrays the role of an engineer on Train 99. He is depicted as a man of middle age, with an extremely likeable disposition and born to the railroad fraternity.

The story opens with the president of a great transcontinental railroad taking an automobile ride winding along the country road, he reaches a long stretch of road running parallel with a railroad track. Train 99 appears on the scene and the engineer is urged into a race by the railroad magnate. Riding down the track is the magnate's daughter, mounted on a trusty steed. At the crossing the horse sulks, falls on the tracks and plus its rider to the tracks. The old engineer's son works in the telegraph office at the siding and, rushing to the scene of the mishap, he finally extricates the girl from her perilous position, just as the train and the road president put in an appearance. As a testimonial of her gratitude for his timely and heroic act, the young lady presents the telegraph operator her horse, while the appreciative president makes the girl of a beautiful home to the old engineer.

But there is a villain in the story, a Mr. Wilton, the president's manager, who shows a jealous instinct in the first reels of the picture. With the assistance of a drunken fireman, he plans to wreck Train 99. Signals are crossed intentionally and Train 99 runs amiss. The telegraph operator senses the situation and mounting the horse given him by the girl whose life he saved, he rides over hill and dale. In the darkness of the night, his horse slips and falls, throwing the rider into a deep gulch. Still conscious of the seriousness of the situation, he sets fire to the brush nearby as a signal for the trains to stop. Down the long stretch of track they come and see the blaze, and then—and then the story goes on with a bride and bridegroom occupying the centre of interest during the remainder of the story.

THE STRAND THEATRE

The feature production at the Strand theatre for the first three days of the week is "Kindred of the Dust," an excellent photo-drama in which Miriam Cooper, a noted screen star sustains the leading role. It is one of Peter B. Kyne's famous stories adapted for the screen showing how true love can overcome any obstacle. There is also another fine play, "White Shoulders," a society drama featuring Katherine MacDonald in the stellar role. The weekly current events are as interesting as ever, while the comedy is pleasing and the musical numbers very enjoyable.

"Kindred of the Dust" deals with a young girl who with her aged grandfather is forced to live on land owned by a wealthy lumber dealer. The latter has a son who falls in love with the girl, and as they grow older, the young man's father objects to his attentions to the girl. The young man goes to college, while the girl leaves home to study music. A few years later the couple return home again and their little love scenes are resumed. The girl is spurned at by the boy's mother and sisters, while the father goes so far as to order the boy to either give up the girl he loves or leave home. Of course the young man follows the latter course and what follows can be better appreciated on the screen.

The story of "White Shoulders" is that of a young woman, whose mother's sole ambition is to see her married to some wealthy man and in order to carry her plans through, she places the girl on the auction block, so to speak. The girl's good looks and the mother's interest in her welfare, attract the attention of an old rich colonel, but the latter fails to make good with the girl and later he quarrels with the girl's brother and sustains fatal injuries. The young man is tried for murder and the jury returns a disagreement. The girl goes through a series of adventures and the story ends with a real love wedding.

The program is one of unusual merit and is sure to be appreciated by all lovers of good photo-drama.

MRS. G. W. HALL SICK FOR YEARS

Wants Women to Know How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lima, Ohio.—"Indeed, your medicine is all you say it is! I had very severe troubles such as women often have, and could do no heavy work. I was sick for several years, and from reading your ads. I finally decided to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now doing my own washing, which I haven't done for several years, and can walk long distances without those dragging pains and weak feelings. The Vegetable Compound is fine, and I never forget to say a good word for it to other women when they say they need something."—Mrs. G. W. Hall, 539 Hazel Avenue, Lima, Ohio.

There are many women who find their household duties almost unbearable owing to some weakness or derangement. The trouble may be slight, yet cause such annoying symptoms as dragging pains, weakness and a run-down feeling.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Hall's experience is but one of many.

FOUR CHILDREN PERISH

Boy and Girl Chums Drown in So. Boston—Five Playmates Saved

Boy Lost Life in Broad Canal, Cambridge—Another in Charles River

BOSTON, June 19.—A girl and boy, school chums, were drowned, and five playmates who went with them in a seven-foot skiff off the army base, So. Boston, were drawn from Boston harbor in a series of dramatic rescues, viewed by holiday thousands who lined the waterfront to see the Leviathan go out at noon, yesterday.

Anna Klemkas, 15, of 5 City Point court, and Lewis Jacobson, 15, of 17 City Point court, South Boston, could swim. But when the tiny craft capsized, spilling the adventurous seven into the water, Anna and Lewis struggled frantically to aid the others. Before help could reach them, they sank, exhausted, and drowned.

The rescued are: Lillian Jacobson, aged 13, and Frederick Jacobson, age 9, of 17 City Point court; Mary Klemkas, aged 11, of 5 City court; Patrick Spano, aged 15, of 2 Campbell place, South Boston; Philip Anastasio, aged 13, of 889 First st., South Boston.

Jacobson's body was not recovered at a late hour and the police boat continued to drag the cove at the foot of P street, where tragedy turned the gay, holiday-imbued district into a place of mourning.

Harbor police and Rescue company 1 of the fire department, labored by hand and pulmotor to bring back life to Anna Klemkas. Her body was picked up floating face down on the surface, a few minutes after she disappeared.

The cause of the accident is disputed by the rescued juveniles. Lillian Klemkas declared to assembled and frantic neighbors that it was the old, old story—one boy rocked the boat, Philip Anastasio insisted with equal vehemence that one of the girls wanted to row. As he gave up the oars, the boat listed and water rushed over the gunwales. He jumped and the others followed him, so he said.

Boy Drowned in Canal

Frank Devine, 9 years old, of 116 Broadway, Cambridge, was drowned late yesterday afternoon in the Broad canal at the Sixth street bridge in Cambridge. Although he was not a swimmer he had gone to the canal with his chums, and, according to one report, was pushed into the water by a companion.

The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Devine and was the second oldest of a family of seven children. His father recently underwent an operation and is at a Cambridge hospital. The metropolitan police of the river basin station dragged the canal until late at night in an effort to recover the body.

Boy Drowns in Charles

Domenic Jeraldi, 14 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jeraldi of 22 Armory street, West Newton, was drowned yesterday while in swimming in the Charles river at the foot of Albemarle road, West Newton. The body was recovered half an hour later by Francis MacDonald of Faxon st., Newton, who, swimming nearby, was attracted by shouts of Joseph Jeraldi, Jr., who had been in swimming with his brother.

This Resident of Rochester Found a Tonic That Helped Her Right Away

"I was tired out all the time," says Mrs. Hattie Blodgett of No. 150 East Main street, Rochester, N. Y., "and was losing my strength. My nerves gave out and indigestion followed. Any food that I ate distressed me. My sleep was restless and I was not refreshed when I awoke. My general health was very much run down.

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were brought to my attention by a newspaper article and I began taking them. They helped me right away and the results from them have been wonderful. My strength has returned and my food no longer distresses me. With restful sleep my nerves have become normal again. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a wonderful tonic and I am grateful for the benefit I received from them."

ST. ELIZABETH BRANCH OF I. N. FORESTERS

The regular quarterly meeting of the St. Elizabeth Branch of Irish National Foresters, held at A.O.H. hall, Middle street, last evening was represented by an almost complete membership. Chief Ranger, Sister Meinnis opened the meeting. Four new members were initiated. Interesting reports of progress were submitted by various committees for affair to be conducted by the branch in the near future but the report of the energetic committee empowered to conduct a "Novelty party and dance" on next Friday evening at A.O.H. hall met with the most approval. This enjoyable affair, which is to be conducted under the auspices of both male and female branches, promises to be a big success, and all members are requested to invite their friends, as to those never attending a novelty party a pleasant surprise awaits them.

The Mayor of this City

has a thousand and one things depending on him—it's vitally important that he keep himself fit.

He ought to eat a big bowl of Mapl-Flake every morning for breakfast—for Mapl-Flake is full of the things that put both mind and body in trim for a big day's work.

Mapl-Flake is 25% Bran

Mapl-Flake is a whole wheat flake, with all the natural bran content of the wheat—enough to make it a harmless, natural laxative. Yet it's so appetizing and full of flavor you forget about "taking bran" as a healthful duty; you eat it in Mapl-Flake as a pleasure.

In addition to the bran, there's all the nourishment of the "staff of life"—vitally valuable salts of iron for making good red blood; phosphorus and lime for sturdy bones, and the indispensable vitamin elements that transform food into force and action. It makes a perfect breakfast.

It's good to eat, and good for you. Be a "Mapl-Flaker."

ANTI-MOSQUITO TAG DAY

There are tag days and tag days innumerable, good, bad and worse, but possibly the citizens of Key West conducted the most useful one we have heard of within the past week or so. A "Mosquito Tag day" was properly staged in the Florida city, with pretty high school misses selling buttons in reams to raise anti-mosquito funds. This is evidence of real activity.

The mosquito is one of Nature's greatest pests. Dr. Francis X. Mahoney broadcasted from Boston via wireless only a few days ago a message telling the citizens of the commonwealth how to avoid the "home-grown" mosquito.

The need of a comprehensive program is evident, for it is useless nowadays to spend evenings out of doors unless covered with mosquito netting or boxed in by mosquito screen barriers. Citizens are apt to be apathetic when it comes to fighting the mosquito beyond the limits of their own homesteads. But we read that in Florida the people started a real campaign against mosquitoes, which is heroic fruit.

Since January some 44 municipal programs have been started, in addition to a considerable number of small community projects. New sanitary inspectors especially for "mosquito work" have been appointed in 41 places. Twenty-eight "Mosquito days" were held before the first of May. At St. Petersburg the mill whistles are blown at 10 o'clock every Saturday morning to remind citizens to look for mosquito-breeding places on their premises. And even New Jersey, famed for its mosquitos, is waging a campaign against the breeding places of this disease bearing pest.

Let the campaign go on everywhere. Destroying the breeding spots for the insect with the poison sting, may be costly, but the campaigns here and there are saving human lives. Here in Massachusetts we might well link the common fly with the mosquito in our grand campaign of extermination.

PLAIN TALK BY DAVIS

James J. Davis, United States secretary of labor, who recently addressed a Lowell audience in the new Memorial Auditorium, has been a member of organized labor for 30 years. He still holds a card in the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of America. At a recent convention in Ohio, Secretary Davis explained in great detail his opinion of both capital and labor.

Employer and employe are like Siamese twins, he averred. If one gains both must gain; if one loses both must lose.

We must place at the disposal of the workers accurate scientific information as to the problems, conditions and purposes when confront employers. The trade union system is fundamentally sound, but like every other great human institution, Mr. Davis declared it is sometimes abused. The spectacle of workers employing the strike weapon against their fellows is a reflection upon our civilization.

"I am not one of those who believe that you can force industrial peace by legal settlement," said Mr. Davis. "The tragedy of every strike, it seems to me, is that, ultimately it is settled by negotiation or compromise. In almost every case both workers and employer have lost by reason of the conflict. Instead of conference after months of industrial battle, I would have counsel before the strike is called.

"Do not wait for times of trouble to get together with your employes. When business is prosperous is the time for workers and management to get together and work out plans for stabilizing conditions in their industry. "The twelve-hour day and the seven-day week in American industry must go!"—all of which is sound and sensible as far as it goes.

THE OIL FRAUDS

It is said that more than $100,000,000 is the amount of money filched from the public during the past five years by oil-stock promoters operating in the state of Texas alone. The inspectors report that companies and syndicates were organized, ran their course and passed into extinction by the hundreds during the past five years, leaving about half a million stockholders scattered throughout the U.S.A. to mourn the fading of their dreams.

Postmaster General New reports that the postoffice department "intends to move in the most energetic manner for the enforcement of both the criminal law and the fraud order statutes against the fraudulent use of the mails" in selling fake oil stocks. Already 500 cases alone have gone to the grand jury at Forth Worth, due to the federal investigation of oil swindles.

The federal campaign ought to have started several years ago. Only recently glowing circulars advertising fake oil stocks were received in Lowell under the guise of "newspapers," the columns exploiting "oil wells" and seeking stock subscriptions for propositions that were discovered to be pure air bubbles.

The mails of Uncle Sam have been filled with these fraudulent promotion schemes for the past year, as many citizens know. It is high time the federal government acted.

RECRUDESCENCE

Large German interests in China, which perforce were badly shattered and in some cases abandoned during the World war, have entered on another period of recrudescence. There have been hints of an understanding between Germany, Russia and Japan on these matters. Such a combination could not be expected to favor Anglo-American influence in the Far East, and might speedily create a solid block which could successfully squeeze out even well-established businesses.

Germany's branching out shows her to also be now actively connected with Russia in Europe, both in regard to future trade enterprises and in respect to the hostility of other western nations. Russia is seeking to recapture her Pacific position at the expense of Japan, but in close harmony with that nation. Both groups naturally desire to win over a pretty large part of the present Anglo-American influence and interests, and, although the partners to these possible alliances would be strange bedfellows, yet from the similarity of their aims they may in combination do damage irreparable before fighting among themselves. Surely the Germans are trying to come back and through the back door that appears to be wide open.

SUMMER PLAYGROUNDS

A news item from Boston may bring a suggestion to Lowell municipal authorities anent the summer playground problem and the welfare of school children who live in closely congested sections of the metropolitan area. Sixteen short Boston thoroughfares will be closed to all vehicular travel during the summer months, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 6 p. m., so as to make safe playgrounds for little children in the densely populated sections.

This idea is working admirably and most successfully in some other large cities, but will be an innovation to Boston. The matter has the approval of children's welfare workers, we are informed, and in most cases proper police patrol and protection is afforded for these "summer playgrounds."

The movement has much to commend it, particularly as it is an effort to safeguard the lives of little children and protect them from traffic dangers that menace so many of the eager youth of our large cities during the months when they are not attending school and sometimes roam away from home to play in quarters where they are likely to meet dangers to life and limb.

GOMPERS ISSUES CHALLENGE

It is reported that some of President Harding's vacation advisers have urged him to inaugurate an "open shop" campaign with a view to making that policy a republican plank in the next election. President Gompers of the A. F. of L. has issued an emphatic protest in which he compares the open shop advocates to the Italian Fascisti and wondered "who would be their Mussolini."

The president, we believe, has shown both by his action and his words in the railroad and coal strikes that he is reluctant to take sides in industrial controversies. He expressly refused to associate himself with the earlier open shop propaganda which was successful in all but the strongest unions in 1920 and 1921, and denounced it as one of the most fruitful causes of industrial strife during the past twelve months.

As a practical proposition, President Harding realizes doubtless that an open shop campaign has little chance of success in a rising labor market. Only when business conditions are bad and the surplus of workers is great can labor unions be weakened or ignored by their enemies.

OPTIMISTIC MR. WOOD

Further improvements in the woolen industry are predicted by William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen company, on his return on the Mauretania last week from a trip to Europe. And the optimistic mill magnate is not worrying at all over the 31-cent tariff on wool. It doesn't concern his great corporation, he told an anxious interviewer.

"The consumer has got to pay the war debt on something, and it might as well be woolens as anything else," was the way Mr. Wood was quoted as he stepped briskly ashore at New York with a genial smile and a world of optimism like the proverbial halo surrounding him.

Mr. Wood was quoted as saying that the consumption of wool is steadily increasing in the United Kingdom and in Japan and the continent the present tone of wool "raw" and finished is firm, and there is real buying with increasing orders in other words, woolen mill customers are fairly eating up production at the present time.

We wonder not at Mr. Wood's optimism. He generally knows whereof he speaks.

LIVING IN CHINA

The cost of living in China is now 125 per cent higher than when the war started in 1914. But, at that, eggs in China are retailing at four to five cents a dozen, in our money, and other necessities in proportion.

There is a joker, as usual in these near-paradises on earth. It is an exceptional man who makes $15 a month in China. It would be fine if we could do our earning in America and our spending in China. Maybe the airplane will make it possible, later on.

In China an American stenographer can "live like a lord," maintaining two or three servants on his income. This glad news is brought by Col. R. M. C. Ruxton of Peking.

Supply and demand make unskilled labor work for a few nickels a day in China's dense and enormous population, but Ruxton says the keen American brain is in big demand over there, and well paid. The east is reputed superiorly over the west, in the matter of heavy thinking, doesn't seem to work out in real life as it does in fiction.

Not Dangerous Lions

Green was always spinning yarns about his experience in Africa and usually he wound up by saying he never yet saw a lion he feared. One night, after he had finished yarning, he was taken aback by one of his audience, who said, "That's nothing, I have thrown myself down and actually slept among lions in their wild natural state." "I can't believe that," said the bold hunter. "It's the truth, though." "Can you prove it? Were they African?" "Well, not exactly African lions. They were dandelions."

Buying the World

The very small boy, with a penny clutched in his hot and sticky hand, entered the toy shop and standing on tiptoe, inspected the goods displayed therein. After a long look he did not see anything to satisfy and asked to see some other things. Nothing seemed to please him, however, and at last the shopkeeper lost his patience and said rather sharply: "Look here, my lad, do you want to buy the whole world with your penny?" The prospective purchaser thought deeply for a moment and then replied, "Let's see it."

An Emergency Man

A New York society man was sightseeing a friend from Ohio through the social whirl at the height of the metropolitan season. "Who is that very fine-looking young fellow talking to the young woman in white?" queried the visitor. "You mean that tall man, just handing her an ice?" "Why," returned the New Yorker, in gravest tones, "that is Louis XIV." "Don't take advantage of my social inexperience," laughed the westerner. "What do you mean?" "Well," exclaimed the host, "his name is Louis, and he is always invited, when, without him, there would be thirteen at the table."

Keeping 'Er Going

A negro called upon an old friend, who received him in a rocking chair. The visitor observed not only that his host did not rise, but that he continued to rock himself to and fro in a most curious way. "Yo' ain't sick, is yo', Harrison?" asked the caller, anxiously. "No, I ain't sick, Mose," said Harrison. There was a moment's silence, during which the caller gazed wide-eyed at the rocking figure. "Den," continued Mose, "why does yo' rock yoself dat way all the time?" Harrison explained: "Yo' know Bill Blott? Well, he sold me a silver watch cheap, an' if I stops moving like dis dat watch don't go."

The Lone Trail

Ye who know the Lone Trail fain would follow it,
Though it lead to glory or the darkness of the pit,
Ye who take the Lone Trail, bid your love good-by;
The Lone Trail, the Lone Trail follow till you die.

The trails of the world be countless, and most of the trails be tried;
You tread on the heels of the many till you come where the ways divide:
And one lies safe in the sunlight and the other is dreary and wan,
Yet you look askant at the Lone Trail, and the Lone Trail lures you on.
And somehow you're sick of the highway, with its noise and its easy needs,
And you seek the risk of the by-way, and you reck not where it leads.

And sometimes it leads to the desert, and the tommie swells out of the mouth,
And you stagger aloud to the mirage, to die in the mocking drouth.
And sometimes it leads to the mountain to the belt of the Long camp-fire,
And you know your belt in the anguish of hunger-goaded desire.
And sometimes it leads to the South-land, to the swamp where the orchid glows
And you rave to your crave with the fever, and they pay you the corpse for its clothes.

And sometimes it leads to the North-land, and the scurvy softens your bones,
And your flesh dints in like putty, and you spit out your teeth like stones.
And sometimes it leads to a coral reef in the wash of a weedy sea,
And you sit and stare at the empty skies where the gulls will greedily.
And sometimes it leads to an Arctic trail, and the snows where your torn feet freeze,
And you whittle away the useless clay, and crawl on your hands and knees.

Often it leads to the dead-pit; always it leads to pain,
By the bones of your brothers ye know it, but oh, to follow you're fain,
By your bones they will follow behind you till the ways of the world are made plain.

Bid good-by to sweetheart, bid good-by to friend;
The Lone Trail, the Lone Trail follow to the end.
Tarry not, and fear not, chosen of the true;
Lover of the Lone Trail the Lone Trail waits for you.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

It seems too bad that the mountain laurel, that beautiful flower of the woods, should be doomed to extinction because of the ruthlessness of our automobilists. Only recently I saw two big machines on the road between Nashua and Lowell that were filled to overflowing with the laurel. I, on the invitation of the driver of one of the machines, got out and viewed the laurel and I found that in many cases the plants had been torn up by the roots. There is no necessity for this and if the laurel is to remain as one of the beauties of which New England may boast, then the automobilists must be compelled either to pick the flower without disturbing the roots or to leave the plant alone.

Traffic Officer William Keegan is making many new friends, I am told, by the able and courteous manner in which he directs traffic at the junction of Central and Merrimack streets. Ever on the alert and solicitous for the welfare of pedestrians and tourists alike, he looks and acts every bit the gentleman that he is. One noticeable feature of the genial officer's appearance is that he invariably wears a pair of neat white gloves while on duty, giving his position a metropolitan touch that demands recognition.

Braves field in Boston claimed the attention of local alumni of Holy Cross and Boston college yesterday. The occasion was the annual June 17 clash between two of the best college baseball teams in the country, H. C. and B. C., and the universal question yesterday was, "Are you going down to the game?" The trip to the Hub was made in automobiles and by train and at game time a local fan estimated that about 500 Lowell people were in attendance.

A reporter busily engaged in writing the account of the auto accident in East Dracut early yesterday morning, and anxious to get it through, called the office boy—a new one who had just started in—and told him to call St. John's hospital and ask how badly injured was one of the men. And when the girl at the hospital told him that the man had a broken wing bone, the O.B. quickly retorted, "Aw, I ain't asking about a girl, it's a man." He lost his job of assistant reporter right then and there.

Remember when we were kids how we used to look forward every year to the annual picnic when we could untie our box lunch and hungrily eat up every crumb? It surely tasted good then, ever so much better than at the dining table. Well, I know a Lowell man who goes on one of those picnics six days every week. It's too far for him to go home to lunch every noon, even in his car. And instead of having luncheon in a restaurant he brings it with him every day. And at noon when he knocks off work he jumps into his car, takes a short spin from the busy streets, and then unties his box lunch. The surprise in finding out what it contains is almost as good as the actual eating of it, he says.

A friend of mine complains that while driving with some friends along the state highway in Tyngsboro one afternoon last week their machine was given a drenching by the gang employed in spraying the trees. The auto was covered with that white fluid used in spraying and the windshield was also completely covered. Fortunately none of the spray touched the clothing of the occupants of the car, but they had a narrow escape. Town authorities should instruct their men to have a little more regard for the rights of people on the state highways.

In this column the other day attention was called to that uncompleted section of the new Lawrence-Lowell boulevard where it joins First street, and the next day some cinders were dumped into the cradle holes. That helps a little bit, although the roughness is still there. But it's better than nothing. There's another bad spot on Merrimack street near Pawtucket street, an excavation about two feet wide in the pavement. This defect has been allowed to remain for some time past and is causing a great deal of annoyance. Autoists not only get a severe jolting, but are apt to have the springs broken on their machine as well. It seems that the proper officials should see to it that the defect is repaired without any further delay.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Uncle Sam's Predicament

Boston Herald: The recent ruling as to supplies of liquor aboard foreign ships within the territorial waters of the United States places Uncle Sam in an absurd position. The president has no choice but to enforce the law as interpreted by the supreme court, and for the removal of its obviously ridiculous features he has no method save appeal to congress for modification of its terms. The president intimates his intention to ask congress to do this. The country will sustain him. A minority of the more fanatical of the drys may object, but they will have their labor for their pains.

New York World: Appraiser Kracke caused a sensation at a dinner of a New York civic club by saying that swords made in Germany are being sold openly in the United States. Germany has got to pay the bill for our Coblenz army somehow. She cannot pay it in gold; we have the gold. But swords for sentimental reasons, and she must pay in toys, or chemicals, or in wax or movie films or something else with unbattled American industries sticking at every step. It is no easy thing to please all the 100-percenters all the time.

Bull Race News: New Orleans is planning to hold several bull fights, the program, we are informed, to go vibrato. Bulls have been imported from Mexico and bull-fighters are coming from Spain. The New Orleans Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has given its assent to the spectacle, "provided the bulls are killed," according to the dispatches. As the chief interest in a bull fight centers about the killing of the bull, after he has been tortured until he is almost ready to die of exhaustion, this is not an understandable utterance.

GRATITUDE

Said the Doughboy to the Gob,
"I can't get it through my knob
Why we're heroes when the cannon start to sound;
But when peace and quiet comes
We are just 'a bunch of bums,'
And the smart set will not let us stick around.

"I ain't jerry to the game;
Peace or war, we're just the same,
And they're both a part and parcel of our job;
Yet they cheer us when we fight
But when peace comes—it's 'Good night!'
I don't get it," said the Doughboy to the Gob!

Said the Gobby to the Doughboy,
"I don't think you'll ever know, boy,
Why they hand us out the ice when peace is here.
It's a rotten deal, I'll say,
But it's always been that way
And I guess we'll have to stand it, that is clear!

"For the people will forget
That they owe us any debt,
And it ain't no use to nourish any woe, boy,
You're a Doughboy, I'm a Gob,
And—To hell with any snob
Who's too good for us!" the Gobby told the Doughboy.

GERMANY SAYS FRAUD TO BLAME

Responsible "For Any Consequences" That May Develop, Says New Note

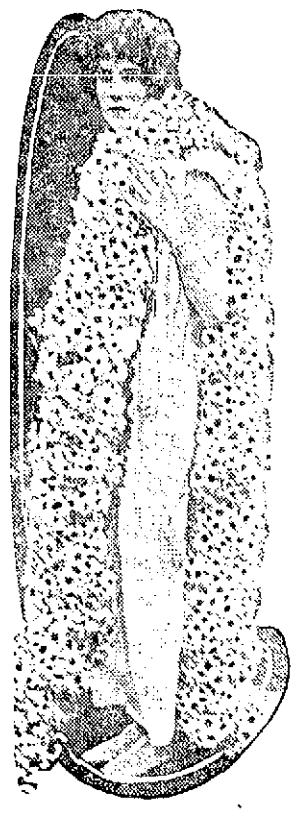

State Department Receives Protest Against "Terrorism" in Ruhr

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Germany's latest protest against French "terrorism" in the Ruhr valley a copy of which was delivered to the state department late yesterday, serves notice that the French government alone will be responsible "for any consequences" that may develop.

"The German government," says the note, "has repeatedly proposed that the unaccounted for incidents should be investigated by international commissions. The French government, however, has failed to reply to all such suggestions. Against such attitude and against such incessant French policy of terrorism the German government raises protest and announces to the world that the responsibility for any consequences rests alone with the French government."

The communication was addressed to Secretary Hughes and was signed by Dr. Otto Wiedfeldt, the German ambassador here. It was indicated at the state department, however, that officials regard it as having been presented only for the information of the American government and not with a view to any intermediary action.

In addition to voicing a general protest against the French methods of administration, the note cited specific instances of alleged wrongs against the German residents of the occupied districts.

WINE RATIONS FOR FRENCH SAILORS

NEW YORK, June 18.—Antoine Bordes, general representative in this country of the French line, announced yesterday afternoon that arrangements had been made in Washington whereby French sailors homeward bound would be issued half a litre of wine a day after the three-mile limit had been passed. Mr. Bordes said he had received notice to this effect from Ambassador Jusserand.

Under the new arrangement, he added, sailors would receive this wine in accordance with French law while bound to the United States, would have their supplies locked up while in port, but would get their rations again after their vessels had passed out.

The wine supply will be admitted under seal as "medical supplies." M. Bordes said, the French minister of health having advised the American government that a half a litre of wine a day was as essential to the welfare of French sailors as food.

WORLD COURT FLAYED

America Would Be Still Part of Britain Under Proposed Court, Says Beveridge

BOSTON, June 19.—America would still be a part of the British empire had the matters seemingly in dispute between Great Britain and her American colonies been submitted to an international court, former-Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana said in an address last night at the Bunker Hill day banquet of general officers, Sons of the Revolution. As a mere matter of then existing law, he added, nearly every point "must and would have been decided against America; and even as a matter of equality, we would have been held in the wrong on important issues; for instance, the British government, having defended the colonies against the French, it was only fair that the colonies should bear their just part of the expense."

"If anybody denied that an international court must and would have decided against us in the beginning, can anybody doubt that such a tribunal, or any form of peace league, must and would have held us to be in the wrong when we scorned the British advances in 1778?" Mr. Beveridge asked.

"To-day all the ancient international devices that ever have been advanced are once more put forward as though they were something new. Every one of them has as its object, and, if successful, its admitted effect, the maintenance of the status quo of the world.

"So in passing upon any or all of these schemes, let us have clearly in mind that the simple issue is whether the American nation wishes to pledge itself to help keep all European and Asiatic boundaries and arrangements as they are.

"In order to 'play our part' abroad more promptly, it is proposed to give our government greater power to deal with foreign affairs. Fatal error! Instead, all government in America should be restricted in every direction. Government supervision of, and interference with human life and activities in the United States bids fair to break down our entire experiment in popular self-rule.

"Consider the appalling fact: One adult person of every 20 persons engaged in business or industry in this country is a government agent, official or employe, county, city, state and national. . . . . All the gold known to exist in the world would barely pay the total cost of government in America for a single year. . . . .

"Another astounding fact is that Americans are forbidden by law to do more things, and by law forced to do more things than were the Russian people under the czar or the German people under the kaiser. Moreover, nearly all of these repressive, oppressive and autocratic laws and regulations have been forced on the statute books by selfish minorities of whom our lawmakers and administrators are in terror. . . . .

"Let our laws be expressions of the will of the majority instead of ukases of the minority, and enforce all laws with absolute equality. Uphold the American constitution—all American institutions, not merely some American institutions."

NEXT GAME THURSDAY
Centralvilles vs. Highland Daylights.

A great crowd, estimated at more than 10,000 fans turned out on the South common last evening to see the Y.M.C.I. defeat the South Ends in a thrilling seven inning Twilight league game by the score of 3 to 0. It was perhaps, the first game that could be called a real contest this year and kept the players and fans on edge until the retirement of the last man in the final inning.

Purely and simply a pitchers' battle, the game was closely contested all the way, with Morais of the institute having a slight, but winning edge on "Hank" Garrity, premier South End flinger. Morais' edge may be attributed to some extent to the superb support given him by his team-mates, only one error appearing in the box score against the Y.M.C.I. The South Ends were also delinquent on one occasion, but the sparsely-allotted hits show the fielding calibre of the participants last night.

Aside from the baseball merits of the game, the affair was featured by plenty of argument, emanating from the most part, from the South End contingent, who invariably found fault with the arbiting of Umpire Bird. It is possible that the resentful attitude of the debaters had some justification, at least on a few occasions, but the umpire is the judge and his decisions, once made, are infallible. The fans, however, derived a certain amount of pleasure from the verbal opposition of the losers. It showed that they were out to win and everything counted.

Desmond's Catch Saved Game

The South Ends took the field with a new man, Leslie Atkinson, on third base. Atkinson was a member of the snappy 1926 Harvard nine the past years and his work last evening stamped him as varsity material. He covered a lot of territory and connected with two hard singles in his first two times at bat. For the Y.M.C.I., the fielding features were contributed by "Connie" Desmond in right field and "Eddie" Gath at shortstop. Desmond cut off a threatening rally in the second frame when, with two men on and two out, he retired the side with a pretty catch near the crowd in right. It saved the Y.M.C.I.'s a heap of trouble. At shortstop, Gath moved around with the ease of a centipede and stopped several hard hit grounders without the semblance of a bobble. "Bing" Falls, in center for the South Ends, also put up a great defensive game and spoiled two clouts, one by "Benny" McAdams and the other by Jimmy Liston, that looked good for extras.

Cawley's Hitting a Feature

"Eddie" Cawley's bludgeon was responsible for the three Y.M.C.I. runs. In the second he connected for a ringing single to right which scored two runs, and again in the fifth, he singled through short and third and brought in the final tally. The only extra-base hit of the game was made by Lynch, who socked out a two-sacker in the second.

Matters began to take on a serious aspect in the very first frame. Atkinson, first man up for the South Ends, singled sharply to center, but was out attempting to pilfer second. The next two men were easy outs, in the Y. M. C. I. half of the same inning, Gath got on by virtue of a single between short and third, but failed to get around when Liston and Cawley went out on flies.

Two Runs For Y. M. C. I.

The second was the big inning for the institute players. Lynch led off with a two-bagger to left center and Gath walked. Liston was credited with a hit when he attempted to sacrifice via a bunt down the first base line. The ball drew "Lefty" Tyler off the bag and left his position unoccupied. There were three on. Cawley up. "Eddie" met a fast one and the ball grounded between Atkinson and Lee, going to left field as two runners struck over the pan. Three men were left stranded in this frame.

The fourth loomed promising for the South Ends. Cahill banged one toward Gath at short, but the ball took a bad hop and bounded over that boy's head. Belleville singled to left, and the fireworks began when "Scud" Riley was called out by Umpire Bird on a foul third strike which "Jimmy" Liston's sleeve refused to let go of. Riley claimed that he did not strike at the sphere, but it was evident that the ball tipped his bat and the rules say he was out on a technical strikeout. The controversy brought the wrath of the South Ends on Ump Bird, but play was resumed shortly, with the Y.M.C.I. scoring once again in the fifth.

Liston socked one down the third base line, the ball barely going over the bag in fair territory. Atkinson nailed the ball behind the station and threw wild to first, giving Liston an extra base as the ball went into the crowd. From second, "Jimmy" hobbled home on a single to left by Cawley and Y.M.C.I. was three runs to the berries.

It was in the fifth inning also that the South Ends looked best. After two were out, Falls and Tyler singled in rapid succession. Klutka came to bat and rapped a hot one in the direction of Desmond in right. The latter went after it at the crack of the bat and nailed the apple as it was about to descend into the crowded regions. The catch prevented a possible tie, as Tyler and Falls were ready to score. PAWTUCKET STARS CLAIM VICTORY

The Pawtucket Stars claim a victory over the Pawtucket Blues by forfeiture. In their game last night the Blues left the field with the bails when the score was 4 to 0 in their favor in the sixth inning. In the frame, the Stars scored two runs and the tying tallies were on the bases when Farrell left the field with the two balls. He was not seen again. It is now a case of put up or shut up, say the Stars, who challenge the Blues to a game for five or ten dollars a side. The Stars also challenge any other 15-16-year-old teams in the city. Friday they will play the Iroquois on the Textile campus.

SHOOTS FATHER TO SAVE MOTHER'S LIFE

BOSTON, June 19.—Arthur J. Walsh, 17 years of age, shot his father, Richard Walsh, a toolmaker, early yesterday morning at their home, 29 Linden park street, Roxbury. Behind the barricaded door of their home the lad and his mother cowered while Walsh, who the police says, was intoxicated, tried to smash his way in, threatening to kill them both. The youth fired one shot from an army rifle through the door.

The father, with a bullet wound in his head, is at the City hospital. The physicians believe he will recover. The boy, who is a messenger for a State street brokerage house, has been arrested on the charge of assault with a loaded gun. He is out on bail until Thursday when he will be given a hearing in Roxbury court.

WILL TAKE OUT LIFE INSURANCE POLICIES

At a regular meeting of the Loomfixers' union held last evening in Trades & Labor hall with President J. E. Jemery in the chair, one hundred and fifty members of the organization signified their intention of taking out life insurance policies issued by the United Textile Workers of America.

These policies are for $250 and $500 and may be taken out by any member of a union affiliated with the Textile Workers of America without even passing a physical examination, and the premium on the said policies is very low. The policies will be issued next month and it is believed by the time they are ready the entire membership of the Loomfixers' union will subscribe. Routine business was transacted and it was voted to keep the charter open until the first Monday in July.

EXPECTS O'NEIL TO RETURN TO BRAVES

BOSTON, July 19—Judge Emil E. Fuchs, one of the owners of the Boston Nationals says he has every reason to believe that Mickey O'Neil, catcher, who left the team at St. Louis, will return in a few days.

"Mickey is a little inclined to become excited about small things," he said, "and I feel sure he will cool down and do the right thing when he has had a chance to think things over.

"Larry Kopf rather surprised me because I thought he would stay with the team at least until the first of the month and see if we couldn't fix up some deal whereby both he and the Braves might profit. He thinks he is through as a big leaguer and does not want to play with a minor league team."

DEFEATED BUT NOT DISGRACED

40,000 Fans Pay Tribute to Jimmy Wilde, Dethroned by Pancho Villa

Crowd Captivated by Little Welshman's Remarkable Exhibition of Gameness

Old Timers Reminded of Passing of "Battling" Nelson, Another Gamester

NEW YORK, June 19.—Jimmy Wilde yielded his title of world's champion flyweight boxer to Pancho Villa last night in a manner that the 40,000 who watched will remember while they live.

The 40,000 who sat in the Polo Grounds and saw the title pass were so captivated by the exhibition of gameness the little Welshman gave that for fully five minutes after it was over, they sat there, mostly quiet, waiting for him to open his eyes and come back to consciousness that he might hear the roar that was their sincere tribute to a genuine fighting man.

Wilde heard the greeting. His arms were tired, but he lifted them as a token; he shook his aching head and went to his wife who was waiting for him in his dressing room.

Villa, an unheard of Filipino more than a year ago, won because he obviously was the better man. Whether now at his very best he is a better man than "the mighty atom" he dethroned when Wilde was in his prime, is a matter for debate.

Old timers who saw the battle said it reminded them of the passing of "Battling" Nelson, the durable Dane, who was so game that he had to be counted out on his feet. Wilde was like that last night. Beaten to the point where the crowd asked that the punishment be stopped, helpless to either defend himself or attack, he yielded not an inch.

Flattened in Second

Wilde kept pressing forward throghout the fight. In the first round his chances of holding his crown seemed good, but when the bell rang in the second, he took a wallop on the chin that flattened him and he never got over the daze; Villa wouldn't let him. Wilde was beaten when the third round began and he was the loser the rest of the way, but he didn't seem to know it until he woke up.

The glorious manner of his passing, the courageous way in which he waved aside requests that he stop and he saved the ignominy of a knockdown, dwarfed other aspects of the battle.

Mrs. Wilde saw her husband in what probably was his last fight. She sat in a row near the top of the saucer-like enclosure. When the sixth round came and she saw the end must be soon, she went down to his dressing room to wait, and she received him there.

"Well, it had to happen some time," was her comment. "We shall go home now and rest."

Wilde Received $60,000

Jimmy received about $60,000, 37½ per cent of the total receipts, and Villa about $20,000, 12½ per cent. The total receipts were about $160,000.

Villa occupies a peculiar pugilistic position, though world's champion, he is not the American titleholder. He won the American title from Johnny Buff and then lost it to Frankie Genaro. He was matched to meet Wilde instead of Genaro because Promoter Tom O'Rourke believed the Filipino to be the better drawing card. Genaro has been assured a match with the winner of last night's bout.

"I have nothing but admiration for Wilde," Villa said. "He was one of the best."

Jimmie said Villa deserved to win. "I simply met my match," were his words. "I don't know whether I shall try to get a return bout. It's too early to say that. It was the first knockout I ever suffered in my own class, and may be that means I'm getting too old. I don't know."

WORLD'S CHAMPIONS END SLUMP AND TURN BACK CARDINALS 4 TO 1

30,000 FANS SEE B. C. WIN OVER HOLY CROSS, 4 TO 1

Triple by Tom Phillips With Three on in the Second Inning Brought Victory to Eagles—McCrehan Hurls Great Game—Carroll's Wildness Fatal

BOSTON, June 19—Boston college is one point nearer the collegiate baseball championship of the east. Its representatives on the diamond yesterday afternoon at Braves Field, before the greatest crowd that ever saw a college game, evened up the series with their greatest rivals, Holy Cross, by winning, 4 to 1, the same score as in Boston college's only other recent baseball win over the Purple, in 1918, at Worcester. The victory was all the sweeter because no longer can the boys from the Heart of the Commonwealth say they have only to play in Boston to win. It was the first time that the maroon and old gold colors have waved over the Holy Cross purple in Boston, and naturally the joy was without bounds, for it means that the two teams will battle again in the third game, which is to be played at Fitton Field, Worcester, Saturday afternoon.

As in all contests between these great rivals, the enthusiasm was vociferous, and there was plenty of glory for the Boston college men, for in the four opportunities that were given them to bang in runs, the necessary blow was delivered twice.

The big crowd, 27,544 paid admissions, but well over 30,000, counting everyone, saw the supposedly greatest of all college baseball pitchers, Owen Carroll of Holy Cross, maltreated by the war clubs of the heavy-hitting men from Newton Heights as he had been at no other time this season.

McCrehan Hurls Finely

The victory went to the team that deserved it. It played the better ball. Frank McCrehan, who finished the first game at Worcester and did not allow a hit, started where he left off. He was at his best, his slow ball working so well that the Worcester boys were stopped in their tracks. McCrehan was as cool as the proverbial cucumber, while the spectators looked on and sweltered. He was master of the situation all the way. But he had to have help and this was liberally given by Tommy Phillips, a Worcester boy, who pickled the ball for a triple to centerfield that spelled defeat for Holy Cross. It was music for the boy who returned home last night. Tony Comerford, about to graduate, delivered the other blow that sent Holy Cross out of the picture.

An idea of how well McCrehan was going in the box can better be gained from the fact that of the two men who reached third base, only one was able to get over. The pitcher, who apparently had been held in reserve for crucial games, was nicked for four hits, only one of which went to the outfield. The others were blows that the infielders knocked down but could not handle. He fanned only one man. Glennon, the football player who was so brilliant for the Worcester college last fall. He only walked two men.

On the other hand, Carroll started off as if he was going to breeze through a winner. He began by striking three men out in the first inning, but not until he had been nicked for a double by "Chuck" Darling, who was the batting star of the day, with three hits to his credit out of as many times at bat.

In the second inning Carroll continued to use his fast ball, and by alternating strikeouts and passes he soon had the bases full with two out. It was here that Tommy Phillips slashed his wicked drive to centerfield that cleaned the bases.

From then on Carroll changed his tactics and used more curved balls and a better change of pace. He, however, was in trouble in the seventh, when three singles in a row added another run for Boston college and put the game beyond the reach of the Holy Cross men.

Carroll was wild, he passed six men and hit another, and these offset his strike outs, of which he had eight to his credit. The score:

DEMPSEY SEEMS TO HAVE LOST OLD-TIME PUNCH

By BOB DORMAN
N. E. A. Service Writer

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 19—Is Jack Dempsey slipping?

That is the question that is today causing more than one heated argument among the patrons of the fight game in these parts.

In the Dempsey camp confidence runs high. No one appears to question the ability of the champion to take care of his Fourth of July opponent.

His sparring partners are loud in their praise of Dempsey's work. Kearns talks confidently of future matches.

But—

Jack's workouts have disappointed more than one of his ardent admirers.

Old Kayo Punch Missing

He has been the target for the punches of sparring partners who would have been easy marks for the Dempsey that brought Willard low.

More than once has the crimson flowed from Jack's face during the few workouts that he has held in the past three weeks.

The old kayo punch that caused a steady stream of human punching bags to flow in and out of the Dempsey camp during the training periods of previous fights, has been conspicuous by its absence.

True, he has dropped several of his trainers. But they have bounced off the floor immediately. Very different from Toledo, Benton Harbor and Atlantic City.

Thinks Gibbons Better

The Italian, Rocco Stramaglia, who was fired from the Dempsey camp for opening a cut over the champ's eye by butting (though there are many who saw the incident who claim it was a hard, right-hand punch that did the damage) is now aiding Gibbons to condition himself.

After his first workout with Gibbons, I asked him to compare the two men. He said:

"Gibbons hit me four times to Dempsey's once. He is much the faster man of the two, in my opinion. Dempsey's punches hurt the most, but at that they were not of the knockout variety. But probably neither of the two were putting all they could on their blows."

But fans who saw Dempsey tear into the Italian after he had cut his eye open, are of the opinion that Jack was leveling. If so, the champion's punch would seem to have lost much of its former power.

And if Jack has lost the terrific punching ability that made him one of the most feared titleholders in the history of the ring, the Fourth of July may see a new heavyweight king crowned.

For Dempsey's sole defense has always been the tearing, crushing attack that earned him the title "The Tiger of the Ring."

CHAMPIONSHIP OF CITY

Golfers From Three Local Clubs to Gather at Long Meadow Today

The second round of the city golf championship, which got away to such an auspicious start a week ago at Mt. Pleasant, will be played this afternoon at Long Meadow, with the same representatives from the three local clubs slashing away for honors.

As on the first day of play, the tournament players will be sent away from the first tee in three-somes, with the first trio driving off promptly at 4 o'clock.

A large gallery is expected to watch the play and tournament officials have made arrangements to handle an unusually bulky crowd. The Long Meadow course is in first class condition from tee to cup throughout the nine-hole journey and low scoring ought to prevail, with many of the city's best club swingers in line for honors.

Marshall Forrest, Jr., with a round of 73 at Mt. Pleasant a week ago, will be in there shooting for another low score to help along his aggregate, but there are others hot on his trail and it is expected that a half dozen or more players will be closely bunched when today's play ends.

Kinks o' the Links

by "PRO"

What is the difference in scoring in medal and match play in golf? Have players the right to concede a putt in medal play?

In match play you win a hole if you make it in fewer strokes than your opponent. Since the result is decided on the number of holes won, the total score for your round is not important. It is not compulsory to play out a hole if you feel that you are certain to lose it. You can end the play for that hole by simply conceding it to your opponent. It is entirely different in medal play, where your scoring must be continuous from the first tee until the last green and you must have a score for every hole. A player has no right to concede a putt in medal play, it being compulsory to sink the putt in every case.

Getting on the green on his third shot, the player making same discovers that his ball is lodged against the flagstick in the hole. How should such a situation be handled?

The flagstick must be carefully removed in order to permit the ball to roll in, if the flagstick had prevented such a happening. If the ball does not fall into the cup, it calls for another putt. If the ball had dropped in when the flagstick had been removed it would have saved another stroke.

Is it permissible to have someone stand at the hole to mark it for you? Is there any penalty if your ball strikes the person standing at the hole marking it for you?

A player has the right to have some one stand at the hole as a guide for his next shot. Usually the caddie does this. If the ball strikes the person marking the hole, you lose the hole in match play and are penalized two strokes in medal play.

BALL GAME TONIGHT ON TEXTILE CAMPUS

Mayor John J. Donovan will start the ball rolling in the Central Massachusetts Twilight league at Textile campus tonight, in the opening fracas between the Salem Town team and "Billy" Marcotte's C.M.A.C. representatives, comprising the pick of the Twilight league and several imports. Steve Patter, the Boston college star, who appeared on the mound for Lizzie Murphy's All-Stars in their 4 to 1 victory over the Highland Daylights last week, or Fitzgerald, the Cambridge Knights of Columbus heaver, will be on the mound for the Lowell team. Fitzgerald pitched against the Abbots at Graniteville Saturday, and lost 5 to 2, on account of a bad opening inning.

Freeman will do the receiving. Conners will play first, John Smith second, Dee short, Boulger third, Loftus left, Bridgford center and Liston or Fare right field. This team is one of the best assembled in Lowell for some time, and it ought to hold its own with the inter-collegiate Salem team. Al Davies and Coco Woodman, in addition to Owen Carroll, the Holy Cross phenom, have been signed for the Salem pitching assignments. Other players are: McLeod c, Wentworth cf, Joyce 3b, Phillips 2b, Nash lf, O'Connor rf, and several others of similar calibre. Nash is the former St. Louis American league player and now Tufts college coach. Wentworth and O'Connor are University of New Hampshire players. The club possesses considerable batting strength, Joyce being one of the cleverest hitters along the North Shore, since the semi-pro days of Stuffy McInnis.

All home games will be played Tuesdays and Saturdays in order not to conflict with the Lowell Twilight league contests. In addition there will be two games away from home each week. If the attendance warrants, one of the strongest clubs placed in the field since the old days of the New England league will represent Lowell in this circuit, announces Manager Marcotte.

Games scheduled this week are as follows:

MASS. TWILIGHT LEAGUE

GAMES TUESDAY
Salem at Lowell.
Gardner at Graniteville.

GAMES WEDNESDAY
Lowell at Fitchburg.
Fall River at Ware.
Gardner at Woonsocket.

GAMES THURSDAY

Puzzling Plays

By Billy Evans

The Play

There were runners on first and third when a batter hit a low liner back at the pitcher.

The pitcher was off his stride and had no chance to make a play on the ball. It struck directly in front of the pitching rubber, and on the first snappy bound, hit the rubber.

Like a flash it bounded over the foul line between home and third. Had it continued on its way it would have been good for at least a double. The runner on third scored, the runner on first went to third, and the batsman reached second before the ball was gotten back into the infield.

What about such a play?

The Interpretation

The ball was foul. The runners should have been sent back to their respective bases and the batter made to hit over again.

The definition of a fair hit ball says it must settle between home and first or home and third, or is in fair territory when bounding to the outfield past first or third.

In this case the ball hit the pitcher's box and then crossed the foul line between third and home and finally settling in foul territory, thereby making it a foul.

FAILURE OF REGULAR TWIRLERS GIVES RYAN CHANCE TO STAR

Young Pitcher Leads Giants to Their First Victory in Seven Starts—Pirates But Two and a Half Games Behind Champs—Tigers Win Over Yankees, White Sox Beat Athletics

NEW YORK, June 19.—Viewing the failure of his regular twirlers, Manager McGraw of the New York Giants, decided to use Bill Ryan to start a game yesterday, instead of constantly keeping him in reserve, and the world's champions won their first game in seven starts, the ambitious St. Louis Cardinals getting only five hits off his slants. The score was 4 to 1.

Pittsburgh, which took the opener from Boston, 8 to 3, is only two and one half games behind the Giants and the Pirates are being hard pressed by the speeding Cincinnati Reds, who returned to the winning column by evening the series with Brooklyn, 6 to 3.

The Philadelphia Quakers after their surprising showing against Pittsburgh last week, fell down before Chicago, 9 to 3, and the Cubs are within less than half a game of the Robins, who kept them out of the first division last week.

The Philadelphia Athletics yesterday had another chance to shorten the gap between themselves and the New York Yankees, but they lost to the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 5.

Ty Cobb's hitters made Murderers' Row of the Yankees look gentle by comparison in winning yesterday's game, 11 to 3, evening the series.

The Tigers need to win again today to keep in the first division as the St. Louis Browns won both games of a double header from Boston, 6-2 and 9-0 and are just one point behind.

Washington beat Cleveland, 4 to 3, in 13 innings.

Federal Government has Lived Within Its Income During Past 12 Months

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Heads of departments and bureaus constituting the "business organization" of the government were called together today to hear formal announcement by President Harding, its head and Director Lord of the budget, that the government has lived within its income during the past 12 months. The meeting also was expected to proceed to a discussion of plans for the forthcoming year and to hear an outline of what the president expects the government to accomplish since it has overcome the prospective deficit.

Although the government machinery has yet two weeks to run on funds appropriated for the current year, treasury officials ahve figured confidently thatthat a surplus of above $175,000,000 will be rung up when business closes June 30. At the beginning of the fiscal year last July 1, an apparent deficit of $823,000,000 confronted the treasury. Pres. Harding ordered economy and greater efficiency and this coupled with unexpected increases in receipts from internal revenue and customs not only has wiped out the deficit but has made possible a substantial surplus of income over outgo.

It is refreshing to see this sentiment among the clergy and the people and I ascribe a great deal of it to the renewed interests in these wonderful cathedrals and abbey churches because they are really delivering literal sermons in stone to the English people."

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 3

Just as Jack had passed inside and out of the bright sunlight, he said, "I don't understand how we can get any place by going in here." "Just wait and see," replied Cucumber. And at that moment Jack saw a little ray of light far ahead of them. As they walked it got bigger.

"That's the doorway to Giant Land," said Jack's friend. "If you will just be quiet and let me do the talking we can get in all right." Then the entrance was reached and Jack was much surprised to see a very large giant leaning up against the side of it. He seemed half asleep.

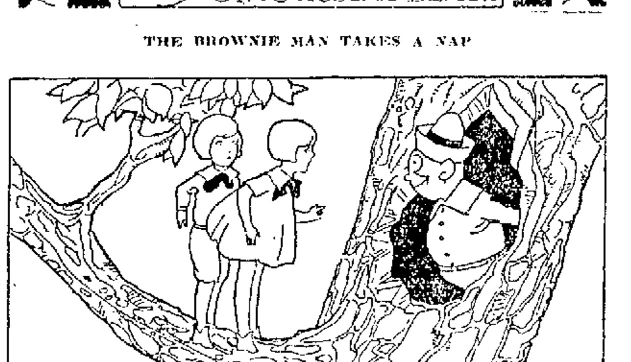

The little funny man clapped his hands loudly and the big giant opened his eyes. "It's all right," said Cucumber, "I'm just taking a friend through Giant Land. Hurry and get your big legs out of the way and let us pass." And the big giant clumsily moved his legs. (Continued.)

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

THE BROWNIE MAN TAKES A NAP

THERE WAS MR. PIM, THE BROWNIE MAN.

Everybody had the best time at the Ragsies' ball.

The bull-frog orchestra with the wood-pecker drumming the drums, played fine dance music.

The Twins in their magic shoes thought they had never had such a good time.

The Moon Man grinned, the stars winked, and the clouds stood still to watch. Never had the meadow been so gay.

Suddenly Rag Tag, the Ragsy, pointed overhead to a hole in the old chestnut tree. "Look!" he whispered. "There is a bird's sharp bill sticking out! Someone was too lazy to come to our party!"

"The very idea!" cried Mister Tatters indignantly. "I do believe it is Mister Flicker, for that's where he lives."

"I've got an idea," said Rag Tag. "Let's climb the tree and push him inside and plaster the hole up with mud. Then he can't get out until we are ready to let him. It may teach him a lesson in manners."

"Good," laughed Mister Tatters "Nancy and Nick, you do it, will you?"

The Twins didn't want to very much, but after all it was only a joke and wouldn't last long, so up they climbed in their magic shoes.

Pretty soon they slid down. "It's all done," they said to Mister Tatters.

Suddenly Nancy cried. "Why, there's Mister Flicker over there!"

"Then who can the other be? Please go at once and look," said the Ragsy Man.

So up went the Twins again and dug out the mud.

There was Mr. Pim Pim, the Brownie Man.

"I got so tired, I climbed up here for forty winks," he yawned, "and someone shut me in."

"Oh, we're so sorry," apologized Nancy. "But we thought the peak on your cap was Mister Flicker's sharp bill."

"I'll forgive you this time," smiled the kind little Brownie man.

BIG DEMAND FOR BOOKS ON RADIO AT LIBRARY

The radio bug has made its presence known at the city library with the result that technical and non-technical books on wireless telephony are in greater demand than any other non-fiction books there. A waiting list has been established for these books, so great is the demand, and within the past year, since the radio became within the reach of the ordinary non-technical person, many new books on this subject have been added to the library's already large supply.

Next to the radio books in the demand for non-fiction comes Well's "History of Mankind," and there is also a steady demand for biographies that have been published but recently. "The Man from Maine" is the most popular of these and it is almost impossible to get a copy of it without waiting for several weeks.

Fiction has always been the big drawing card at the library and this year is no different from other years. Recent fiction is always in demand and the old favorite authors such as Peter B. Kyne, Oliver Curwood and Zane Grey, have not diminished one iota in popularity during the many years that they have been writing novels.

SMITH COLLEGE

Honorary Degrees for Two Members of Faculty

NORTHAMPTON, June 19.—Honorary degrees were conferred by President William Allen Neilson on two retiring members of the Smith college faculty at the 45th annual commencement of the college today. Dr. Florence Gilman, who has been college physician and chairman of the department of hygiene and physical education, was given the degree of doctor of science; and Dwight William Tryon, who retires as professor of art, that of master of arts.

For the first time in the history of the college diplomas were presented to a group selected to study under the newly established special honors system in which students of outstanding ability are allowed to do concentrated work in one field during their last two years.

Bachelor degrees were conferred on 352 students and 12 took masters degrees. The commencement address was delivered by Bishop Charles Lewis Slattery of Boston. President Emeritus L. Clark Seelye gave the invocation.

TO CONTEST FOR SENATE SEAT

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 19.—(By the Associated Press) Governor J. A. O. Preus, republican; Magnus Johnson, farmer-labor, and James Carley, democrat, were nominated in yesterday's primary to contest July 16, to succeed the late Knute Nelson, Minnesota's senior United States senator.

Political observers expect the main fight in the final election, for the seat until March 4, 1925, to be between the governor and Mr. Johnson. In the recent gubernatorial campaign, Preus defeated Johnson by 14,000 votes.

NEW DIRECTORY PERMIT

A building permit to cover the erection of the new rectory for St. Patrick's church has been taken out at the office of the superintendent of buildings in the name of the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Boston. The estimated cost is $50,000.

MEETING OF THE PARK COMMISSION

The board of park commissioners held a special meeting last night at 8.30 o'clock with Clarence M. Weed, chairman, Alexander Rountree and Harvey B. Greene present.

A vote had been prepared by the city solicitor in regard to the payment of $600 to William E. Cawley for loss of the rights of lease of the buildings formerly known as the Wiggin property on the First street parkway. This vote was accepted without any discussion.

At the request of Councilor Arthur B. Chadwick, the city solicitor also had prepared a vote in regard to the seizure of land in the rear of the Charles W. Morey school for playground purposes, the total cost to be $712. This money has already been appropriated by the city council and all that was necessary before the land should be seized was the approval of the park commissioners. This vote was also accepted.

A set of rules was drawn up by the park commissioners outlining what branches of the playground work shall come under the school department and what shall come under the park department. This has been drawn up as a result of the conference held at the last meeting between these two departments and will be given to the school committee for their approval. A letter explaining certain details of the recommendations shall be sent also. As soon as the school department has an opportunity to vote on this proposition, it will be made public.

Bids for the completion of the riverbank wall on the First street parkway were called for some time ago and were returnable yesterday at noon. Only one local contractor, John A. Simpson, entered a bid. As his bid was but $5.90 a yard the commission voted to award the contract to him.

It was also voted that the girl playground supervisors should wear a regular playground uniform, the design of which will be decided in the near future.

Supt. John A. Kernan was instructed to get prices on backstops for the two tennis courts that are now being installed on the North common.

Mr. Pillman of Ayer, who formerly ran an establishment on property owned by himself on land leased from the Locks and Canals on Riverside street, appeared before the board to find out what attitude the city would take towards reimbursing him for his buildings when the time came for their seizure. No action was taken on this matter and the meeting adjourned.

Bank Forced to Close

stitution 17 years, the last one as cashier.

The relatively large defalcation was explained in part by the fact that the bank held what was said to be in excess of one million dollars in Wichita school bonds. Drumm is alleged to have used these and other bonds as collateral to float personal loans for investment in oil ventures. Drumm was in charge of the bond department of the bank.

Criminal action was deferred pending an investigation by the state bank commissioner.

The bank's surplus is listed at $250,000, its surplus, undivided profits and an equity in the bank building are said to be $475,000.

W. N. Richards, president of the institution, expressed belief that depositors would suffer no loss.

Wholesale broom corn interests of Wichita were said to be the heaviest depositors. The bank held state deposits of nearly $25,000.

Drumm is said to have invested considerable sums in the Sayer oil fields of northern Oklahoma.

Drumm could not be found after the defalcation was announced. His mother said he was spending the night with friends. According to clearing house officials, Drumm said that all personal properties would be turned over to the bank.

RAILROADS MAKING GOOD

R. H. Newcomb Says Feeling Roads Are Not Functioning is Too General

The feeling which is becoming all too general in this country that the railroads are not functioning, which R. H. Newcomb, executive's assistant of the Boston & Maine R. R. told the members of the Lowell Ad club at their regular meeting last night at Lakeview park was a false notion, was counteracted by the speaker to some extent by a clear statement of facts as to just what the railroads are doing.

Mr. Newcomb pointed out that transportation is a distinct manufacturing business in itself, yet necessary to every man's existence. The production units that go to make up this manufacturing plant are locomotives and cars, track and yard layouts, and such shop facilities as are required for the prompt and proper handling of this equipment.

The manufactured product is transportation, sold in units of ton miles and passenger miles. The sale of these units is the source of revenue. If the plant is to function properly and increase its facilities with the demands of increasing business, then there must be a wide enough margin between cost of production and selling prices to insure financial stability.

The speaker declared that the railroads are now taking care of more traffic than ever before in history. During the week of May 26 he said a total of 1,014,027 cars were loaded with revenue freight. This total is not only by far the largest loading ever reported for a single week at this season of the year, but has been surpassed only twice before for any week in any year in history, both of which were in the fall when traffic is always heaviest due to crop movement.

Moreover, the railroads of the country anticipate a still larger development. Realizing this, he said the Boston & Maine R. R. has ordered within the past year 42 locomotives, 98 steel cars for passenger train service and 600 new freight cars. With the program as laid out by all the roads of the country, this effort bears the same relation to the whole as the B. & M. mileage bears to the total mileage of the United States.

The roadway program for this year on the B. & M. contemplates the laying of 20,000 tons of rail, the placing of 1,250,000 new ties, the ballasting of some 100 miles of track, the strengthening of several bridges and some yard changes at Boston and Ayer. All this will cost $12,500,000.

The speaker also gave some very interesting figures relative to business in New England. Besides an increase of 32 per cent. in population in 15 years, from 5,592,027 in 1905 to 7,400,000 in 1920, Mr. Newcomb quoted statistics showing that from 1904 to 1919 the capital invested in manufacturing industry in New England had increased from $1,800,000,000 to $2,671,000,000. The products of these same institutions had increased from $3,025,000,000 to $7,183,000,000, and the number of wage earners increased during that 15-year period from 950,000 to 1,288,359.

BEGINS ERECTION OF MIXING PLANT

The Nashoba Construction Co., awarded the contract to furnish bituminous paving material to the city this summer, today began the erection of its mixing plant on land owned by John Brady in back of the Harvard brewery buildings. By Thursday it is expected the plant will be in readiness to turn out between 1000 and 1200 square yards of material a day.

The erection of the plant is in charge of Mark Joyce, plant superintendent of the Nashoba Co., recently returned from Equador where he was engaged for three years in road construction work.

The material turned out at the plant will be hauled to jobs in process by four Mack trucks, owned by the Nashoba concern. The first job to be tackled is West Sixth street and ought to be completed within seven days after a start is made.

LOWELL GIRL MISSING SINCE SUNDAY

Miss Elizabeth Egan, 24, daughter of John J. Egan of 29 Cady street, has been missing from home since last Sunday and an anxious father is desirous of learning of her whereabouts. She left home about 11 o'clock Sunday night with the intention of going to a neighborhood store for a loaf of bread. She has not been seen since.

The missing girl has been in failing health for the past few weeks. She is described as being about five feet in height, weighing about 110 pounds, medium dark complexion, dark hair, and when last seen, she was wearing a blue serge suit, gray hat, gray stockings, gray squirrel neckpiece and black sandals.

EXHIBITION OF DRAWING AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

An exhibition of drawing will be held in the high school on Thursday, June 21, from 3.30 to 5.30 p. m., and on Friday, June 22, from 3.30 to 5.30. This exhibition will be the first of its kind held in the high school and will be under the direction of Miss Georgia L. Blaisdell, instructor of drawing.

The exhibit includes pencil light and shade, charcoal light and shade color pure and applied, design pure and applied, posters, school paper headings, pastel and water color work, pen and ink drawing, pencil drawings for work made in sewing, place cards, paper flowers, favors for table decoration, silhouette cut-out pictures framed and basket of reed and bookcovers.

The work this year connects with the work in the home economics department, with some specials coming in with those pupils. Later it is planned to have the drawing work in the Normal, Textile manual training and commercial courses. In the Normal and Textile courses the work is to connect with that done in the Normal and Textile schools. The commercial course in the high school is sending pupils out to positions where knowledge and ability to do commercial advertising will add greatly to their interest in their work and income.

MANY ENTER ANNUAL SHORTHAND CONTEST

Ninety-one pupils in the commercial department of the high school entered the annual contest for the purpose of determining which school reaches the highest standard as to accuracy and artistic qualities in writing Gregg shorthand, that is conducted by the Gregg Publishing company.

Every one of the 91 qualified for the certificate that is awarded only to those whose notes reach a very high standard. Miss Elizabeth Ortner, one of the 91, was awarded a gold ring for turning in the best of the number and 44 won honorable mention.

As a special prize, Mr. Orton E. Beach, head of the shorthand department in the school and Miss Ida L. Samuels, a teacher in the department, each received fine leather bound De Luxe editions of the Gregg manual, lettered in gold, accompanied by congratulations upon the high standard reached by their pupils. These prizes are awarded to teachers whose clubs are just below the first and second prize winners.

The pupils who submitted papers are all members of the senior class of the school and have shown exceptional quality in all their work throughout the year. Some of them have already gone out to positions and others will be recommended for good positions in the near future.

The Gregg Writer, the official publication of the Gregg Publishing company, in commenting on the results of the contest says as follows:

"A fine club was submitted by Mr. Orton E. Beach and Miss Ida Samuels of the Lowell high school. There were 91 papers submitted, ranking very high in quality, 44 meriting honorable mention. Mr. Beach is one of our old enthusiasts, and always submits a fine large club, but this year the work is far superior to that of any previous year, and we believe that with the same good progress next year, Lowell high will win one of the banners."

THE OLD HOME TOWN

SCHOOL PRINCIPALS TO BE ENTERTAINED

Pupils of the domestic science department of the high school will entertain the associated principals of the public schools at luncheon in the lunch room of the school at 6 o'clock this evening. The guests for the occasion will include the principals of the primary, grammar, junior high, continuation and vocational schools of the city.

was transacted. It was announced that next Tuesday evening will be Rotary Night at the "Pops" concert in Symphony hall, Boston, and names of local members who intend to attend the affair were taken so that reservations might be made for them.

At the close of the dinner, C. R. Prichard, general manager of the gas company, outlined the various phases in the manufacture of both coal and water gas, and the different processes through which the coal goes before it becomes coke for the retail trade.

Then the group was broken up into several small groups and each was headed by an employe of the gas company who was fully capable of answering any questions which the Rotarians asked and could also describe the many machines and processes used in the manufacture of gas. It was an extremely warm day for the trip and many a stiff white collar was wilted beyond recognition by the time the Rotarians had passed through only part of the plant. The trip was greatly enjoyed, however, and the Rotarians were profuse in their thanks to Mr. Prichard and the men who had shown them the mysteries of the manufacture of gas.

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

Man Charged With Assaulting Child is Held in $500—Other Cases

Armand Martin, charged with assault and battery on an eight-year-old girl, was ordered held in $500 until tomorrow, when his case was called in the district court this morning. The victim of the assault testified that she was playing in her yard last Sunday morning when defendant, a neighbor and married, called her into his house. He motioned her to a side room, she said, and when he laid his hands on her she hollered for help. He then let her go and told her not to tell her mother and offered her 50 cents to bind the bargain. Going to the street she informed a policeman of the incident and Martin was placed under arrest. The continuance to tomorrow was granted to await the examination of the mental condition of the defendant by the city physician.

Irene Vaillancourt, 17, and Corinne Vaillancourt, 19, charged with being stubborn children, were placed on straight probation for a term of one year each. Their mother claimed that they had a tendency toward leaving home at regular intervals and not informing her of their whereabouts. The two girls said their actions were prompted by an aunt who lived with her mother and who was continually scolding them. The court suggested that the aunt remove her living quarters apart from the defendants.

Arthur Bouvin, claiming residence in Mexico, was arrested for drunkenness by Officer Patrick J. Carey yesterday after he had broken a window in Market street. A suspended sentence of two months in the house of correction was imposed.

He paid $15 and then payments stopped. When no word was forthcoming from him, a capias was issued and he appeared in court this morning. His wife told the court that the family had been visited with sickness of late and Judge Enright ordered a remittance of the remaining $5 due.

George Brady, on an assault and battery charge, was continued until tomorrow morning under bonds of $300.

A suspended sentence of five months in the house of correction was imposed on Edward Lachance, charged with non-support, the sentence to take effect if he fails to contribute $7 weekly to his wife's support.

Leviathan Off on Trial Trip to Tropics

The greatest ship under the American flag, the reconditioned Leviathan, leaves Boston today for a five-day jaunt to Cuba and return to New York without stopping. Her first trans-Atlantic voyage is scheduled to start July 4.

BOSTON, June 19.—The fairest of summer weather favored the guests of the shipping board who will sail for southern waters this afternoon on the mammoth liner Leviathan. Early in the day there was not a cloud in the sky. A steady rise in temperature gave promise of a hot day but a fresh breeze was blowing out of the southwest.

The great ship, transformed from its role of army transport, to a luxurious home for travelers, lay spick and span in her new paint at an anchorage in the lower harbor. She was floated without a hitch yesterday from the navy drydock in South Boston, where she received her finishing touches and took aboard the last of her magnificent furnishings and a great store of supplies. Some of the guests went down the harbor on a small steamer yesterday afternoon and spent the

Motions to Frame Issues for Jury Trial Argued Before Judge McCoole in Probate Court—Nieces and Nephews the Contestants

Motions to frame issues for a jury trial were argued before Judge McCoole of Dedham in the second session of probate court here today in the contest over the will of the late James H. McDermott, who for nearly a half century was an undertaker in this city. The amount of the estate in dispute is estimated at $50,000.

Attorney James E. O'Donnell appeared as counsel for the following nieces and nephews of the deceased, who are seeking to break the will: Annie Gray, James H. Howard, Chas Howard and Joseph Howard of Lowell; Walter J. Howard of Lynn, Mrs. James Hall of Nashua, Mrs. Fred Bastian of Salem and Mrs. William White of Boston.

In his argument Attorney O'Donnell informed the court that Mr. McDermott had died within three months at the age of about 80 years. He was born across the water but lived the greater part of his life in Lowell and CHICAGO, June 19.—Woman or man, Mrs. Frances Carrick, also known as Fred C. Thompson, was identified today by Mrs. Richard C. Tesmer as the supposed woman bandit who shot and killed her husband in a holdup on June 5.

First supposed to be a man disguised as a woman, the prisoner was declared by Frank Carrick, who with two others, was arrested with the accused to have lived as his wife for fourteen years.

Known as Mrs. Carrick, the suspect in the opinion of the police led a double life as both man and woman.

BILLERICA WOMAN SAYS BURLY POLICEMAN HUSBAND HAS VERY BAD DISPOSITION

Roland Francis Sanborn, of Billerica, who stands six feet, seven and one-half inches in height and weighs 250 pounds, and is employed as a Boston & Maine police officer, used to take great delight in throwing lighted matches at his wife, Mrs. Sanborn told Judge McCoole, of Norfolk, during the trial of her uncontested suit for divorce in the second session of probate court in the local county court house this morning.

But that was only an incident, Mrs. Sanborn testified. She said that his chief characteristic, which he began married in July of 1922, was an ugly disposition. The climax came in November, four months after they were married, when without provocation he assaulted her and fractured some of her ribs.

That ended the honeymoon, and

The ordinance calling for the establishment of salaries of members of the election commission at $2000 each per year, unanimously ordered advertised by the city council two weeks ago following a favorable report from the committee on salaries, will be before the body for action tonight.

On the mayor's desk is a resolution adopted by the council calling for an appropriation of $3800 to cover salary increases contemplated for the election commissioners, who now are serving also as members of the listing board, and Mayor Donovan said today he does not contemplate taking any action upon it, inasmuch as the city law department has questioned the legality of such a form of supplementary budget. In connection with the ordinance it

WASHINGTON, June 19—A part of the mystery which has surrounded the latest treasury move in the ship liquor controversy, was dispelled today by a declaration in official circles that hereafter the ship's doctor on a foreign ship will be given custody, in American waters of such liquor as he is willing to certify is for "medicinal purposes."

Although no one at the treasury would discuss the development in detail, it was assumed that under this policy it will be posible for foreign ships to bring in wine rations for their

PRESIDENT OF AMHERST COLLEGE RESIGNS

AMHERST, June 19.—President Alexander Meiklejohn of Amherst college has resigned, the resignation to take effect next June. This announcement was made this afternoon by President George A. Plimpton, of the board of trustees.

The resignation was accepted by the trustees to take effect at the end of a year's leave of absence with pay. The trustees in announcing the resignation made public correspondence between the board and Dr. Meiklejohn in which the president was asked to resign as president but to remain as a member of the college faculty. Dr. Meiklejohn declared that he felt that such a course would be harmful to the college rather than helpful. He felt that with the existing lack of support among the trustees it would be necessary for him to resign both as president and as professor of logic and metaphysics.

Rum runners are extremely busy on the tip of Long Island, the sheriff said, adding that they apparently had the sympathetic co-operation of a large part of the populace.

ERUPTION OF MOUNT ETNA CONTINUES—50,000 HOMELESS

One Stream of Lava Now Threatening Giarre, a City of About 20,000 Inhabitants at Base of Volcano—Three Towns Wiped Out—Ashes, Stones and Cinders Darken Sun—Crater a Horrible Insatiable Monster

CATANIA, Italy, June 19.—(By the Associated Press) The eruption of Mount Etna continues unabated. One stream of lava is now threatening Giarre, a city of about 20,000 inhabitants at the base of the volcano and the population is beginning to leave.

About 50,000 persons have already been made homeless in the area surrounding Etna. The ashes, cinders and stones emitted by the volcano are so thick as to darken the sun, and the crater seems a horrible insatiable monster.

Professor Ponzi of the University of Catania has gone to Etna to ascertain whether a new crater opened on the eastern slope is that which was active in 1879.

Cardinal Francica-Nava, archbishop of Catania, has communicated to the clergy in the stricken area the faithful and paternal interest of the pontiff in the sufferings of the population. He has also received instructions to do all he can in relieving the refugees.

Three Towns Wiped Out

ROME, June 19.—(By the Associated Press) Gabriele Carnazza, Italian minister of public works, has gone to the devastated region around Mount Etna to assist in caring for the persons who have been made homeless by the mighty mountain's eruption.

Hope was expressed that Linguaglossa, which at one time yesterday appeared to be doomed by the lava stream, was out of danger. Three little towns—Piedilo, Pallamolara and Fiero—have been completely wiped out.

Refugees are pouring into Catania from the little communities that lie almost in the shadow of the mountain, and the Catanians are doing their utmost to make the refugees comfortable. Some of those arriving from the menaced region last evening, reported a continuance of the earth shocks that announced the first great outpouring of lava.

Mount Vesuvius continues moderately active, emitting much steam and lava. This, it is remarked, is unusual for when Etna is active, Vesuvius is ordinarily quiet and vice versa.

Mount Vesuvius Active

LONDON, June 19—The Naples correspondent of the London Daily Mail ascended Mount Vesuvius last Saturday with Prof. Mailadra, who lives in the observatory just below the cone. The men found that much smoke, steam and lava were active within the great crater, but the professor assured the correspondent the volcano was rapidly returning to normal after its recent activity. He said he did not expect any serious eruption for many years.

Lowell Telephone Operators Not Contemplating Strike

head of the telephone operators department of the International Electrical Workers, an organization entirely distinct from the International Telephone Workers. The former is associated with the American Federation of Labor. Miss O'Connor in statements attributed to her, states that the union is fighting for existence and not for higher wages and a seven hour day. The Telephone Workers association is condemned by Miss O'Connor who states that the organization is merely a tool of the company, and that it is aiding to break her union. President Fuller stated that no attempt had been made to intimidate the Lowell operators to show any discrimination toward the girls because they were affiliated with the union. "Lowell operators are satisfied with their working conditions," continues Miss Fuller. "There is no truth to the statement of Miss O'Connor that the international organization with which the Lowell operators are connected, is working to undermine the Electrical Workers association."

LEGIONAIRES OPPOSED

Local Post Members Do Not Want Lawrence Veterans' Bureau Discontinued

A resolution condemning the proposal of Dr. E. O. Crossman, head of the New England division of the Veterans' bureau in requesting National Director Hines to discontinue the veterans' sub-division office at Lawrence, was passed at the regular meeting of the American legion held last night in Memorial Auditorium. Members of Post 87 were emphatic in their denouncement of the plan to discontinue the Lawrence office which has 300 men in training and has given 1500 men medical attention.

According to the statements of Legion members, the Lawrence office is one place that the veterans of Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill and the intermediate smaller towns can get a square deal. The transfer of the office would save rental, but would entail a hardship on the veterans who would have to travel to Boston to have their claims settled. The clerical staff and the papers at the office would have to be transferred to Boston, entailing much expense and a general holdup of all claims in this section.

Capt. Thomas W. Doyle, formerly of Lowell and a member of the old Sixth Associates, now located at Fort Benning, Georgia, as a captain in the regular army, was introduced to the members of the post by Commander Joseph A. Molloy. The captain was given a vociferous demonstration by the members, many of whom were associated with him during the Spanish war, as he rose to speak. The speaker stated that he was much pleased with the activity of the Lowell post.

Plans were discussed for a "Navy day" outing at the Martin Luther grounds July 15, the announced date of National Commander Alvin Owsley's visit to Lowell. It was proposed that legion members of the surrounding counties be invited to the affair, and to hold a program of sports and a dinner.

The national convention to be held in California and the state convention at Marblehead were discussed by the members. California expects to entertain 200,000 delegates at the national meeting of the legionnaires.

Proper respect to the flag was urged by the commander who asked the members to do all in their power to spread the gospel of proper respect. "The school children are the only salvation of the country in regard to paying tribute to the colors," said the legion head.

To Contest McDermott Will

had retired from active business about seven years ago.

The will offered for probate was made in July, 1919, but prior to 1919 he said Mr. McDermott had made a will entirely different than his last testament. In the latest will Mr. McDermott left nothing to his blood relations, but willed practically everything to his sister-in-law, Mrs. John McDermott, with whom he made his home at the time of his death.

Attorney O'Donnell further stated that in 1918 and in 1919 prior to the execution of the will, Mr. McDermott on several occasions manifested a complete lack of memory, and misunderstanding and confusion about important papers with which he had formerly been well versed; that he had been confused about streets in the vicinity of his home with which he was familiar, and that he had frequently inquired about persons whom he had known were dead.

He argued further that Mr. McDermott was feeble, mentally and physically, and that those in close contact with him took advantage of that condition and unduly influenced him in the disposition of his property by the will and by deeds. Further than that he said that the relatives with whom he had been very friendly had been prevented from seeing him, these relatives being the ones who were mentioned in the previous will.

Attorney John H. Coakley of Boston, who appeared for Mary White, another niece, said that his client was a daughter of a sister of the deceased, and that she had been prevented from seeing Mr. McDermott. One day, however, she met him on the street and he continually kept asking about her mother, whom he knew was dead.

Attorney J. J. Kerwin, counsel for the beneficiary under the will, argued strongly against a trial by jury, claiming that nothing definite had been introduced as to the identity of the ones alleged to have used influence. He presumed that the petitioners inferred such against Mrs. McDermott and her daughter, who is deaf and dumb. But it was nothing more than a mere suspicion in the minds of disappointed relatives, he said, and there should be something more convincing.

Attorney Kerwin argued that Mr. McDermott was of testamentory capacity up to within a few days of his death, that he even collected his rents, transacted his business and made out his income tax alone a few days before his death.

Mr. McDermott made his home with his sister-in-law and her family for 18 years, Attorney Kerwin said, and although several of his nieces and nephews lived in Lowell they never went to see him. As for Mrs. White, he declared that she had not called to see her uncle in 15 years.

The issue was clearly one for a single justice to decide Attorney Kerwin concluded, insofar as a trial by jury would eat heavily into the estate and there would be nothing left.

Judge McCoole took the matter under advisement.

loaded wagon began to settle, a large cake of ice weighing about 250 pounds slipped off into the road. Three men and a heavy jack were despatched to the scene from the Gage houses and after the ton and a half of ice had been removed, the wagon was raised. It was refilled with ice, and started off again on its route.

A hole about four feet long three feet wide and at least four feet deep, was uncovered in the middle of the road after the wagon had been extricated. It looked as though rain water had undermined the surface strusture and when the heavy load passed over it, it gave way.

Residents who have lived in the vicinity for many years stated that during the winter it is practically impossible to drive a machine over this section of the road without getting stuck. The macadamized surface from Autumn street to Gorham, on Maple, has the resemblance of a corrugated wash board, and it appears to be soft as putty. The area north of Maple street now used as a freight yard by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad was at one time a swamp and it is thought that seepage from the low area has something to do with the soft condition of the Maple street roadway.

TOOK BEST EFFORTS TO "DRY UP" BIG LINER

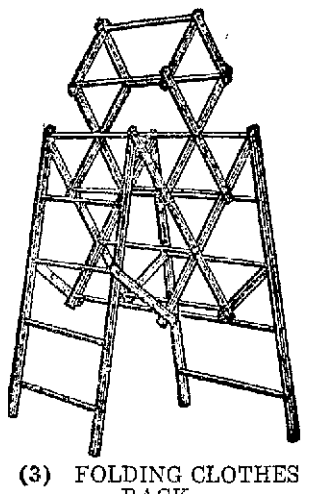

NEW YORK, June 19—The liner Majestic arrived today fro mCherbourg, bon dry, except for 36 gallons of brandy, required by British law for emergency medical use.

Although she had started with her usual supply of liquor and, in addition, private stocks which some pasengers had ordered in England, the entire supply was gone at 11.30 last night before the three mile limit was reached.

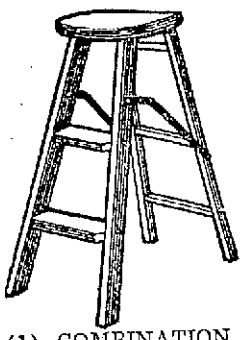

"It took the best efforts of the passengers to do it," said one ship's officer.

OLD TIME DANCING AND FAVOR PARTY

Surprise favors are in store for those who attend the old-time dancing and favor party in the Kesino tomorrow night. Elaborate plans have been made by the management to make everybody feel at home, and plenty of fun will be provided for all participants in the party. Suitable favors will be distributed and choicest dance music will be played by the artists connected with Campbell's orchestra.

The affair, according to present plans, should resemble a miniature mardi gras, not only in the distribution of fanciful head-gear, but also in the nature of noise-making instruments, including horns, bells and other disturbers of the peace. The floor has been newly polished and is in better condition than on any previous occasion this season, and a general good time is assured all who attend.

Yesterday was Mothers' day at the school and the program consisted of sports in the morning and the presentation of the pageant, "The Heart of the World," in the afternoon.

The sports program consisted of volley ball, bounce ball, and a baseball game between the seniors and the juniors. The latter was the most exciting event and was won by the seniors by a large score.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

A story interesting to both grown-ups and children, featuring Jackie Coogan, popular juvenile screen hero, in "Trouble," is the headliner at the Merrimack Square theatre the first of this week. The picture is packed full of interesting and amusing incidents which carry the audience along at an entertaining pace from start to finish.

Jackie is discovered hiding in a barrel after escaping from an orphanage which refused to allow him to keep his dog, by Officer Dugan, who noticed the hound's tail wagging through the slats of the barrel. Both are returned to the orphanage and kept as the home is to close in a short time. An auction of the inmates follows and the little star is purchased by a drunken plumber. Life is made miserable for the man's wife, the dog and the adopted "kid," by the husband who refuses to work. A sudden call for a plumber is made and as the man refuses to heed the call, Jackie accepts the appeal, and by divers ways manages to get the heavy set of tools into the house.

The amateur plumber floods the bathroom and the cellar, and he is chased away by passersby who note the damage. The mistress arrives and presents him with a five dollar note, which he gives to his new adopted mother. The husband attempts to secure the bill and in the mixup he is knocked out by a well directed flower pot, thrown by the youngster plumber. The police enter during the melee and the husband is taken to the station and tried in court. The parents of the wife noting the details of the story in the newspaper, appear in court, at the trial and take their daughter, after the husband is handed a sentence of one year in jail. Jackie is taken along with the family to the country, making an ideal ending for the interesting story.

"Wonders of the Sea" is a thrilling picture of life in the depths of the ocean. "Pest of the Storm Country," is the comedy, and the News Weekly and Fun from the Press complete the bill.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

One of the most thrilling railroad stories ever filmed is "Westbound Limited," which is being shown at the B. F. Keith theatre this week. It is a real story of flesh and steel, based on the ordinary life of the railroad man and a tribute to his unswerving devotion to the service of the public. Besides the human interest theme of the play, there are several gripping scenes which demand recognition. The reproduction of a disastrous train wreck, in which two locomotives figure in a head-on collision makes the audience gasp and wonder how such a realistic reproduction is effected through the medium of the camera and the art of the director.

The star of the picture is Ralph Lewis, who portrays the role of an engineer on Train 99. He is depicted as a man of middle age, with an extremely likeable disposition and born to the railroad fraternity.

The story opens with the president of a great transcontinental railroad taking an automobile ride winding along the country road, he reaches a long stretch of road running parallel with a railroad track. Train 99 appears on the scene and the engineer is urged into a race by the railroad magnate. Riding down the track is the magnate's daughter, mounted on a trusty steed. At the crossing the horse sulks, falls on the tracks and pins its rider to the tracks. The old engineer's son works in the telegraph office at the siding and, rushing to the scene of the mishap, he finally extricates the girl from her perilous position, just as the train and the road president put in an appearance. As a testimonial of her gratitude for his timely and heroic act, the young lady presents the telegraph operator her horse, while the appreciative president makes the gift of a beautiful home to the old engineer.

But there is a villain in the story, a Mr. Wilton, the president's manager, who shows a jealous instinct in the first reels of the picture. With the assistance of a drunken fireman, he plans to wreck Train 99. Signals are crossed intentionally and Train 99 runs amiss. The telegraph operator senses the situation and mounting the horse given him by the girl whose life he saved, he rides over hill and dale. In the darkness of the night, his horse slips and falls, throwing the rider into a deep gulch. Still conscious of the seriousness of the situation, he sets fire to the brush nearby as a signal for the trains to stop. Down the long stretch of track they come and see the blaze, and then—and then the story goes on with a bride and bridegroom occupying the centre of interest during the remainder of the story.

THE STRAND THEATRE

The feature production at the Strand theatre for the first three days of the week is "Kindred of the Dust," an excellent photo-drama in which Miriam Cooper, a noted screen star sustains the leading role. It is one of Peter B. Kyne's famous stories adapted for the screen showing how true love can overcome any obstacle. There is also another fine play, "White Shoulders," a society drama featuring Katherine MacDonald in the stellar role. The weekly current events are as interesting as ever, while the comedy is pleasing and the musical numbers very enjoyable.

"Kindred of the Dust" deals with a young girl who with her aged grandfather is forced to live on land owned by a wealthy lumber dealer. The latter has a son who falls in love with the girl, and as they grow older, the young man's father objects to his attentions to the girl. The young man goes to college, while the girl leaves home to study music. A few years later the couple return home again and their little love scenes are resumed. The girl is sneered at by the boy's mother and sisters, while the father goes so far as to order the boy to either give up the girl he loves or leave home. Of course the young man follows the latter course and what follows can be better appreciated on the screen.

The story of "White Shoulders" is that of a young woman, whose mother's sole ambition is to see her married to some wealthy man and in order to carry her plans through she places the girl on the auction block, so to speak. The girl's good looks and the mother's interest in her welfare, attract the attention of an old rich colonel, but the latter fails to make good with the girl and later he quarrels with the girl's brother and sustains fatal injuries. The young man is tried for murder and the jury returns a disagreement. The girl goes through a series of adventures and the story ends with a real love wedding. The program is one of unusual merit and is sure to be appreciated by all lovers of good photo-drama.

MRS. G. W. HALL SICK FOR YEARS

Wants Women to Know How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lima, Ohio.—"Indeed, your medicine is all you say it is! I had very severe troubles such as women often have, and could do no heavy work. I was sick for several years, and from reading your ads. I finally decided to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now doing my own washing, which I haven't done for several years, and can walk long distances without those dragging pains and weak feelings. The Vegetable Compound is fine, and I never forget to say a good word for it to other women when they say they need something."—Mrs. G. W. Hall, 539 Hazel Avenue, Lima, Ohio.

There are many women who find their household duties almost unbearable owing to some weakness or derangement. The trouble may be slight, yet cause such annoying symptoms as dragging pains, weakness and a run-down feeling.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Hall's experience is but one of many.

FOUR CHILDREN PERISH

Boy and Girl Chums Drown in So. Boston—Five Playmates Saved

Boy Lost Life in Broad Canal, Cambridge—Another in Charles River

BOSTON, June 18.—A girl and boy, school chums, were drowned, and five playmates who went with them in a seven-foot skiff off the army base, So. Boston, were drawn from Boston harbor in a series of dramatic rescues, viewed by holiday thousands who lined the waterfront to see the Leviathan go out at noon, yesterday.

Anna Klemkas, 15, of 5 City Point court, and Lewis Jacobson, 15, of 17 City Point court, South Boston, could swim. But when the tiny craft capsized, spilling the adventurous seven into the water, Anna and Lewis struggled frantically to aid the others. Before help could reach them, they sank, exhausted, and drowned.

The rescued are: Lillian Jacobson, aged 13, and Frederick Jacobson, age 9, of 17 City Point court; Mary Klemkas, aged 11, of 8 City court; Patrick Spano, aged 15, of 2 Campbell place, South Boston; Philip Anastasio, aged 13, of 889 First st., South Boston.

Jacobson's body was not recovered at a late hour and the police boat continued to drag the cove at the foot of P street, where tragedy turned the gay, holiday-imbued district into a place of mourning.

Harbor police and Rescue company 1 of the fire department, labored by hand and pulmotor to bring back life to Anna Klemkas. Her body was picked up floating face down on the surface, a few minutes after she disappeared.

The cause of the accident is disputed by the rescued juveniles. Lillian Klemkas declared to assembled and frantic neighbors that it was the old, old story—one boy rocked the boat, Philip Anastasio insisted with equal vehemence that one of the girls wanted to row. As he gave up the oars, the boat listed and water rushed over the gunwales. He jumped and the others followed him, so he said.

Boy Drowned in Canal

Frank Devine, 9 years old, of 116 Broadway, Cambridge, was drowned late yesterday afternoon in the Broad canal at the Sixth street bridge in Cambridge. Although he was not a swimmer he had gone to the canal with his chums, and, according to one report, was pushed into the water by a companion.

The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Devine and was the second oldest of a family of seven children. His father recently underwent an operation and is at a Cambridge hospital. The metropolitan police of the river basin station dragged the canal until late at night in an effort to recover the body.

Boy Drowns in Charles

Domenic Jeraldi, 14 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jeraldi of 22 Armory street, West Newton, was drowned yesterday while in swimming in the Charles river at the foot of Albemarle road, West Newton. The body was recovered half an hour later by Francis MacDonald of Faxon st., Newton, who, swimming nearby, was attracted by shouts of Joseph Jeraldi, Jr., who had been in swimming with his brother.

ST. ELIZABETH BRANCH OF I. N. FORESTERS

The regular quarterly meeting of the St. Elizabeth Branch of Irish National Foresters, held at A.O.H. hall, Middle street, last evening was represented by an almost complete membership. Chief Ranger, Sister McInnis opened the meeting. Four new members were initiated. Interesting reports of progress were submitted by various committees for affair to be conducted by the branch in the near future but the report of the energetic committee empowered to conduct a "Novelty party and dance" on next Friday evening at A.O.H. hall met with the most approval. This enjoyable affair, which is to be conducted under the auspices of both male and female branches, promises to be a big success, and all members are requested to invite their friends, as to those never attending a novelty party a pleasant surprise awaits them.

The Mayor of this City

has a thousand and one things depending on him—it's vitally important that he keep himself fit.

He ought to eat a big bowl of Mapl-Flake every morning for breakfast—for Mapl-Flake is full of the things that put both mind and body in trim for a big day's work.

Mapl-Flake is 25% Bran

Mapl-Flake is a whole wheat flake, with all the natural bran content of the wheat—enough to make it a harmless, natural laxative. Yet it's so appetizing and full of flavor you forget about "taking bran" as a healthful duty; you eat it in Mapl-Flake as a pleasure.

In addition to the bran, there's all the nourishment of the "staff of life"—vitally valuable salts of iron for making good red blood; phosphorus and lime for sturdy bones, and the indispensable vitamin elements that transform food into force and action. It makes a perfect breakfast.

It's good to eat, and good for you. Be a "Mapl-Flaker."

ANTI-MOSQUITO TAG DAY

There are tag days and tag days innumerable, good, bad and worse, but possibly the citizens of Key West conducted the most useful one we have heard of within the past week or so. A "Mosquito Tag day" was properly staged in the Florida city, with pretty high school misses selling buttons in rooms to raise anti-mosquito funds. This is evidence of real activity.

The mosquito is one of Nature's greatest pests, Dr. Francis X. Mahoney broadcasted from Boston via wireless only a few days ago a message telling the citizens of the commonwealth how to avoid the "home-grown" mosquito.

The need of a comprehensive program is evident, for it is useless nowadays to spend evenings out of doors unless covered with mosquito netting or boxed in by mosquito screen barriers. Citizens are apt to be apathetic when it comes to fighting the mosquito beyond the limits of their own homesteads. But we read that in Florida, the people started a real campaign against mosquitoes, which is bearing fruit.

Since January some 44 municipal programs have been started, in addition to a considerable number of small community projects. New sanitary inspectors especially for "mosquito work" have been appointed in 41 places. Twenty-eight "Mosquito days" were held before the first of May. At St. Petersburg the mill whistles are blown at 10 o'clock every Saturday morning to remind citizens to look for mosquito-breeding places on their premises. And even New Jersey, famed for its mosquitos, is waging a campaign against the breeding places of this disease bearing pest.

Let the campaign go on everywhere. Destroying the breeding spots for the insect with the poison sting, may be costly, but the campaigns here and there are saving human lives. Here in Massachusetts we might well link the common fly with the mosquito in our grand campaign of extermination.

PLAIN TALK BY DAVIS

James J. Davis, United States secretary of labor, who recently addressed a Lowell audience in the new Memorial Auditorium, has been a member of organized labor for 30 years. He still holds a card in the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of America. At a recent convention in Ohio, Secretary Davis explained in great detail his opinion of both capital and labor.

Employer and employe are like Siamese twins, he averred. If one gains both must gain; if one loses both must lose.

We must place at the disposal of the workers accurate scientific information as to the problems, conditions and purposes which confront employers. The trade union system is fundamentally sound, but like every other great human institution, Mr. Davis declared it is sometimes abused. The spectacle of workers employing the strike weapon against their fellows is a reflection upon our civilization.

"I am not one of those who believe that you can force industrial peace by legal settlement," said Mr. Davis. "The tragedy of every strike, it seems to me, is that, ultimately it is settled by negotiation or compromise. In almost every case both workers and employer have lost by reason of the conflict. Instead of conference after months of industrial battle, I would have counsel before the strike is called.

"Do not wait for times of trouble to get together with your employer. When business is prosperous is the time for workers and management to get together and work out plans for stabilizing conditions in their industry. "The twelve-hour day and the seven-day week in American industry must go!"—all of which is sound and sensible as far as it goes.

THE OIL FRAUDS

It is said that more than $100,000,000 is the amount of money filched from the public during the past five years by oil-stock promoters operating in the state of Texas alone. The inspectors report that companies and syndicates were organized, ran their course and passed into extinction by the hundreds during the past five years, leaving about half a million stockholders scattered throughout the U.S.A. to mourn the fading of their dreams.

Postmaster General New reports that the postoffice department "intends to move in the most vigorous manner for the enforcement of both the criminal law and the fraud order statutes against the fraudulent use of the mails" in selling fake oil stocks. Already 200 cases alone have gone to the grand jury at Forth Worth, due to the federal investigation of oil swindles.

The federal campaign ought to have started several years ago. Only recently glowing circulars advertising fake oil stocks, were received in Lowell under the guise of "newspapers," the columns exploiting "oil wells" and seeking stock subscriptions for propositions that were discovered to be pure air bubbles.

The mails of Uncle Sam have been filled with these fraudulent promotion schemes for the past year, as many citizens know. It is high time the federal government acted.

RECRUDESCENCE

Large German interests in China, which perforce were badly shattered and in some cases abandoned during the World war, have entered on another period of recrudescence. There have been hints of an understanding between Germany, Russia and Japan on these matters. Such a combination could not be expected to favor Anglo-American influence in the Far East, and might speedily create a solid block which could successfully squeeze out even well-established businesses.

Germany's branching out shows her to also be now actively connected with Russia in Europe, both in regard to future trade enterprises and in respect to the hostility of other western nations. Russia is seeking to recapture her Pacific position at the expense of Japan, but in close harmony with that nation. Both groups naturally desire to win over a pretty large part of the present Anglo-American influence and interests, and, although the partners to these possible alliances would be strange bedfellows, yet from the similarity of their aims they may in combination do damage irreparable before fighting among themselves. Surely the Germans are trying to come back and through the back door that appears to be wide open.

SUMMER PLAYGROUNDS

A news item from Boston may bring a suggestion to Lowell municipal authorities anent the summer playground problem and the welfare of school children who live in closely congested sections of the metropolitan area. Sixteen short Boston thoroughfares will be closed to all vehicular travel during the summer months, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 6 p. m., so as to make safe playgrounds for little children in the densely populated sections.

This idea is working admirably and most successfully in some other large cities, but will be an innovation to Boston. The matter has the approval of children's welfare workers, we are informed, and in most cases proper police patrol and protection is afforded for these "summer playgrounds."

The movement has much to commend it, particularly as it is an effort to safeguard the lives of little children and protect them from traffic dangers that menace so many of the eager youth of our large cities during the months when they are not attending school and sometimes roam away from home to play in quarters where they are likely to meet dangers to life and limb.

GOMPERS ISSUES CHALLENGE

It is reported that some of President Harding's vacation advisers have urged him to inaugurate an "open shop" campaign with a view to making that policy a republican plank in the next election. President Gompers of the A. F. of L. has issued an emphatic protest in which he compares the open shop advocates to the Italian Fascisti and wondered "who would be their Mussolini."

The president, we believe, has shown both by his action and his words in the railroad and coal strikes that he is reluctant to take sides in industrial controversies. He expressly refused to associate himself with the earlier open shop propaganda which was successful in all but the strongest unions in 1920 and 1921, and denounced it as one of the most fruitful causes of industrial strife during the past twelve months.

As a practical proposition, President Harding realizes doubtless that an open shop campaign has little chance of success in a rising labor market. Only when business conditions are bad and the surplus of workers is great, can labor unions be weakened or ignored by their enemies.

OPTIMISTIC MR. WOOD

Further improvements in the woolen industry are predicted by William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen company, on his return on the Mauretania last week from a trip to Europe. And the optimistic mill magnate is not worrying at all over the 31-cent tariff on wool. It doesn't concern his great corporation, he told an anxious interviewer.

"The consumer has got to pay the war debt on something, and it might as well be woolens as anything else," was the way Mr. Wood was quoted as he stepped briskly ashore at New York with a genial smile and a world of optimism like the proverbial halo surrounding him.

Mr. Wood was quoted as saying that the consumption of wool is steadily increasing in the United Kingdom and in Japan and the continent, the present tone of wool "raw" and finished is firm, and there is real buying with increasing orders. In other words, woolen mill customers are fairly eating up production at the present time.

We wonder not at Mr. Wood's optimism. He generally knows whereof he speaks.

LIVING IN CHINA

The cost of living in China is now 100 per cent higher than when the war started in 1914. But, at that, eggs in China are retailing at four to five cents a dozen, in our money, and other necessities in proportion.

There is a joker, as usual in these near-paradises on earth: It is an exceptional man who makes $15 a month in China. It would be fine if we could do our earning in America and our spending in China. Maybe the airplane will make it possible later on.

In China an American stenographer can "live like a lord," maintaining two or three servants on his income. This glad news is brought by Col. R. M. C. Ruxton of Peking.

Supply and demand make unskilled labor work for a few nickels a day in China's dense and enormous population. But Ruxton says the keen American brain is in big demand over there, and well paid. The cost's reputed superiority over the west, in the matter of heavy thinking, doesn't seem to work out in real life as it does in fiction.

Sailors on foreign vessels are pacified by the assurance that they can buy all the liquor they need while on shore leave in the United States, a tribute to our consistency.

A Thought

Oh, what may man within him hide, though an angel on the outward side.

Not Dangerous Lions

Green was always spinning yarns about his experience in Africa and usually he wound up by saying he never yet saw a lion he feared. One night, after he had finished yarning, he was taken aback by one of his audience, who said, "That's nothing, I have thrown myself down and actually slept among lions in their wild natural state." "I can't believe that," said the bold hunter. "It's the truth, though." "Can you prove it? Were they African?" "Well, not exactly African lions. They were dandelions."

Buying the World

The very small boy, with a penny clutched in his hot and sticky hand, entered the toy shop and standing on tiptoe, inspected the goods displayed therein. After a long look he did not see anything to satisfy and asked to see some other things. Nothing seemed to please him, however, and at last the shopkeeper lost his patience and said rather sharply: "Look here, my lad, do you want to buy the whole world with your penny?" The prospective purchaser thought deeply for a moment and then replied: "Let's see it!"

An Emergency Man

A New York society man was cicerroning a friend from Ohio through the social whirl at the height of the metropolitan season. "Who is that very fine-looking young fellow talking to the young woman in white?" queried the visitor. "You mean that tall man, just handing her an ice?" "Why," returned the New Yorker, in gravest tones, "that is Louis XIV." "Don't take advantage of my social inexperience," laughed the westerner. "What do you mean?" "Well," exclaimed the host, "his name is Louis, and he is always invited, when, without him, there would be thirteen at the table."

Keeping 'Er Going

A negro called upon an old friend, who received him in a rocking chair. The visitor observed not only that his host did not rise, but that he continued to rock himself to and fro in a most curious way. "Yo' ain't sick, is yo', Harrison?" asked the caller, anxiously. "No, I ain't sick, Mose," said Harrison. There was a moment's silence, during which the caller gazed wide-eyed at the rocking figure. "Den," continued Mose, "why does yo' rock yo'self dat way all the time?" Harrison explained: "Yo' know Bill Bluff? Well, he sold me a silver watch cheap, an' if I stops moving like dis dat watch don't go."

The Lone Trail

Ye who know the Lone Trail fain would follow it,
Though it lead to glory or the darkness of the pit,
Ye who take the Lone Trail, bid your love good-by,
The Lone Trail, the Lone Trail follow till you die.

The trails of the world be countless, and most of the trails be blind;
You tread on the heels of the many till you come where the ways divide;
And one lies safe in the sunlight, and the other is dreary and wan,
Yet you look askant at the Lone Trail, and the Lone Trail lures you on.
And somehow you're sick of the Broadway, with its ease and its easy needs,
And you seek the side of the by-way, and you reck not where it leads.
And sometimes it leads to the desert, and the tender swells out of the mouth,
And you stagger blind to the mirage, to die in the mocking drouth.
And sometimes it leads to the mountain, to the light of the lone campfire,
And you leave your bed in the anguish of hunger-goaded desire,
And sometimes it leads to the Southland, to the swamp where the orchid glows
And you rave to your grave with the fever, and they rob the corpse for its clothes.
And sometimes it leads to the Northland, and the scurvy softens your bones,
And your flesh falls in like putty, and you spit out your teeth like stones.
And sometimes it leads to a coral reef in the wake of a windy sea,
And you sit and stare at the empty glare where the gulls wail greedily.
And sometimes it leads to an Arctic trail, and the snows where your form feet freeze,
And you whittle away the useless clay, and crawl on your hands and knees.
Often it leads to the dead-pit; always it leads to pain,
By the bones of your brothers, ye know it, but oh, to follow you're fain.
By your bones they will follow behind you till the ways of the world are made plain.

Bid good-by to sweetheart, bid good-by to friend;
The Lone Trail, the Lone Trail follow to the end.
Tarry not, and fear not, chosen of the true,
Lover of the Lone Trail, the Lone Trail waits for you.

—By ROBERT W. SERVICE IN "The Spell of the Yukon."

MAN ABOUT TOWN

It seems too bad that the mountain laurel, that beautiful flower of the woods, should be doomed to extinction because of the ruthlessness of our automobilists. Only recently I saw two big machines on the road between Nashua and Lowell that were filled to overflowing with the laurel. I, on the invitation of the driver of one of the machines, got out and viewed the laurel and I found that in many cases the plants had been torn up by the roots. There is no necessity for this and if the laurel is to remain as one of the beauties of which New England may boast, then the automobilists must be compelled either to pick the flower without disturbing the roots or to leave the plant alone.

Traffic Officer William Keegan is making many new friends, I am told, by the able and courteous manner in which he directs traffic at the junction of Central and Merrimack streets. Ever on the alert and solicitous for the welfare of pedestrians and tourists alike, he looks and acts every bit the gentleman that he is. One noticeable feature of the genial officer's appearance is that he invariably wears a pair of neat white gloves while on duty, giving his position a metropolitan touch that demands recognition.

Braves field in Boston claimed the attention of local alumni of Holy Cross and Boston college yesterday. The occasion was the annual June 17 clash between two of the best college baseball teams in the country, H. C. and B. C., and the universal question yesterday was, "Are you going down to the game?" The trip to the Hub was made in automobiles and by train and at game time a local fan estimated that about 500 Lowell people were in attendance.

A reporter busily engaged in writing the account of the auto accident in East Dracut early yesterday morning, and anxious to get it through, called the office boy—a new one who had just started in—and told him to call St. John's hospital and ask how badly injured was one of the men. And when the girl at the hospital told him that the man had a broken wing bone, the O.B. quickly retorted, "Aw, I ain't asking about a girl, it's a man." He lost his job of assistant reporter right then and there.

Remember when we were kids how we used to look forward every year to the annual picnic when we could untie our box lunch and hungrily eat up every crumb? It surely tasted good then, ever so much better than at the dining table. Well, I know a Lowell man who goes on one of those picnics six days every week. It's too far for him to go home to lunch every noon, even in his car. And instead of having luncheon in a restaurant he brings it with him every day. And at noon when he knocks off work he jumps into his car, takes a short spin from the busy streets, and then unties his box lunch. The surprise in finding out what it contains is almost as good as the actual eating of it, he says.

A friend of mine complains that while driving with some friends along the state highway in Tyngsboro one afternoon last week their machine was given a drenching by the gang employed in spraying the trees. The auto was covered with that white fluid used in spraying and the windshield was also completely covered. Fortunately none of the spray touched the clothing of the occupants of the car, but they had a narrow escape. Town authorities should instruct their men to have a little more regard for the rights of people on the state highways.

In this column the other day attention was called to that uncompleted section of the new Lawrence-Lowell boulevard where it joins First street, and the next day some cinders were dumped into the cradle holes. That helps a little bit, although the roughness is still there. But it's better than nothing. There's another bad spot on Merrimack street near Pawtucket street, an excavation about two feet wide in the pavement. This defect has been allowed to remain for some time past and is causing a great deal of annoyance. Autoists not only get a severe jolting, but are apt to have the springs broken on their machine as well. It seems that the proper officials should see to it that the defect is repaired without any further delay.

Uncle Sam's Predicament

Boston Herald: The recent ruling as to supplies of liquor aboard foreign ships within the territorial waters of the United States places Uncle Sam in an absurd position. The president has no choice but to enforce the law as interpreted by the supreme court, and for the removal of its obviously ridiculous features he has no method save appeal to congress for modification of its terms. The president intimates his intention to ask congress to do this. The country will sustain him. A minority of the more fanatical of the drys may object, but they will have their labor for their pains.

Using German Swords

New York World: Appraiser Kracke caused a sensation at a dinner of a New York civic club by saying that swords made in Germany are being sold openly in the United States. Germany has got to pay the bill for our Coblenz army somehow. She cannot pay it in gold, we have the gold. Bar swords, for sentimental reasons, and she must pay in toys, or chemicals, or books, or movie films or something else—with embattled American industries shrieking at every step. It is no easy thing to please all the 100-percenters all the time.

As to Bull Fights

Fall River News: New Orleans is planning to hold several bull fights, the proceeds we are informed, to go charity. Bulls have been imported from Mexico and bull-fighters are coming from Spain. The New Orleans Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has given its assent to the spectacles, "provided the bulls are killed," according to the dispatches. As the chief interest in a bull fight centers about the killing of the bull, after he has been tortured until he is almost ready to die of exhaustion, this is not an understandable utterance.

GRATITUDE

Said the Doughboy to the Gob,
"I can't get it through my knob
Why we're heroes when the cannon start to sound;
But when peace and quiet comes
We are just 'a bunch of bums,'
And the smart set will not let us stick around.

"I ain't jerry to the game;
Peace or war, we're just the same,
And they're both a part and parcel of our job;
Yet they cheer us when we fight
But when peace comes—it's 'Good night!'
I don't get it," said the Doughboy to the Gob!

Said the Gobby to the Doughboy,
"I don't think you'll ever know, boy,
Why they hand us out the ice when peace is here.
It's a rotten deal, I'll say,
But it's always been that way
And I guess we'll have to stand it, that is clear!

"For the people will forget
That they owe us any debt,
And it ain't no use to nourish any woe, boy,
You're a Doughboy, I'm a Gob,
And—To hell with any snob
Who's too good for us!" the Gobby told the Doughboy.

GERMANY SAYS FRA- TO BLAME

Responsible "For Any Consequences" That May Develop, Says New Note

State Department Receives Protest Against "Terrorism" in Ruhr

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Germany's latest protest against French "terrorism" in the Ruhr valley a copy of which was delivered to the state department late yesterday, serves notice that the French government alone will be responsible "for any consequences" that may develop.

"The German government," says the note, "has repeatedly proposed that the unaccounted for incidents should be investigated by international commissions. The French government, however, has failed to reply to all such suggestions. Against such attitude and against such incessant French policy of terrorism the German government raises protest and announces to the world that the responsibility for any consequences rests alone with the French government."

The communication was addressed to Secretary Hughes and was signed by Dr. Otto Wiedfeldt, the German ambassador here. It was indicated at the state department, however, that officials regard it as having been presented only for the information of the American government and not with a view to any intermediary action.

In addition to voicing a general protest against the French methods of administration, the note cited specific instances of alleged wrongs against the German residents of the occupied districts.

WINE RATIONS FOR FRENCH SAILORS

NEW YORK, June 19.—Antoine Bordes, general representative in this country of the French line, announced yesterday afternoon that arrangements had been made in Washington whereby French sailors homeward bound would be issued half a litre of wine a day after the three-mile limit had been passed. Mr. Bordes said he had received notice to this effect from Ambassador Jusserand.

Under the new arrangement, he added, sailors would receive this wine in accordance with French law while bound to the United States, would have their supplies locked up while in port, but would get their rations again after their vessels had passed out.

The wine supply will be admitted under seal as "medical supplies." M. Bordes said, the French minister of health having advised the American government that a half a litre of wine a day was as essential to the welfare of French sailors as food.

WORLD COURT FLAYED

America Would Be Still Part of Britain Under Proposed Court, Says Beveridge

BOSTON, June 19.—America would still be a part of the British empire had the matters seemingly in dispute between Great Britain and her American colonies been submitted to an international court, former-Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana said in an address last night at the Bunker Hill day banquet of general officers, Sons of the Revolution. As a mere matter of then existing law, he added, nearly every point "must and would have been decided against America, and even as a matter of equality, we would have been held in the wrong on important issues; for instance, the British government, having defended the colonies against the French, it was only fair that the colonies should bear their just part of the expense."

"If anybody denied that an international court must and would have decided against us in the beginning, can anybody doubt that such a tribunal, or any form of peace league, must and would have held us to be in the wrong when we scorned the British advances in 1775?" Mr. Beveridge asked.

"Today all the ancient international devices that ever have been advanced are once more put forward as though they were something new. Every-one of them has as its object, and, if successful, its admitted effect, the maintenance of the status quo of the world.

"So in passing upon any or all of these schemes, let us have clearly in mind that the simple issue is whether the American nation wishes to pledge itself to help keep all European and Asiatic boundaries and arrangements as they are.

"In order to 'play our part' abroad more promptly, it is proposed to give our government greater power to deal with foreign affairs. Fatal error! Instead, all government in America should be restricted in every direction. Government supervision of, and interference with human life and activities in the United States bids fair to break down our entire experiment in popular self-rule.

"Consider the appalling fact: One adult person of every 20 persons engaged in business or industry in this country is a government agent, official or employe, county, city, state and national. . . . . All the gold known to exist in the world would barely pay the total cost of government in America for a single year. . . . .

"Another astounding fact is that Americans are forbidden by law to do more things, and by law forced to do more things than were the Russian people under the czar or the German people under the kaiser. Moreover, nearly all of these repressive, oppressive and autocratic laws and regulations have been forced on the statute books by selfish minorities of whom our lawmakers and administrators are in terror. . . . .

"Let our laws be expressions of the will of the majority instead of ukases of the minority, and enforce all laws with absolute equality. Uphold the American constitution—all American institutions, not merely some American institutions."

Centralvilles vs. Highland Daylights.

A great crowd, estimated at more than 10,000 fans turned out on the South common last evening to see the Y.M.C.I. defeat the South Ends in a thrilling seven inning Twilight league game by the score of 3 to 0. It was perhaps, the first game that could be called a real contest this year and kept the players and fans on edge until the retirement of the last man in the final inning.

Purely and simply a pitchers' battle, the game was closely contested all the way, with Morais of the Institute having a slight, but winning edge on "Hank" Garrity, premier South End flinger. Morais' edge may be attributed to some extent to the superb support given him by his team-mates, only one error appearing in the box score against the Y.M.C.I. The South Ends were also delinquent on one occasion, but the sparsely-alloted hits show the fielding calibre of the participants last night.

Aside from the baseball merits of the game, the affair was featured by plenty of argument, emanating from the most part, from the South End contingent, who invariably found fault with the arbiting of Umpire Bird. It is possible that the resentful attitude of the debaters had some justification, at least on a few occasions, but the umpire is the judge and his decisions, once made, are infallible. The fans, however, derived a certain amount of pleasure from the verbal opposition of the losers. It showed that they were out to win and everything counted.

Desmond's Catch Saved Game

The South Ends took the field with a new man, Leslie Atkinson, on third base. Atkinson was a member of the snappy 1926 Harvard nine the past years and his work last evening stamped him as varsity material. He covered a lot of territory and connected with two hard singles in his first two times at bat. For the Y.M.C.I. the fielding features were contributed by "Connie" Desmond in right field and "Eddie" Gath at shortstop. Desmond cut off a threatening rally in the second frame when, with two men on and two out, he retired the side with a pretty catch near the crowd in right. It saved the Y.M.C.I.'s a heap of trouble. At shortstop, Gath moved around with the ease of a centipede and stopped several hard hit grounders without the semblance of a bobble. "Bing" Falls, in center for the South Ends, also put up a great defensive game and spoiled two clouts, one by "Benny" McAdams and the other by Jimmy Liston, that looked good for extras.

Cawley's Hitting a Feature

"Eddie" Cawley's bludgeon was responsible for the three Y.M.C.I. runs. In the second he connected for a ringing single to right which scored two runs, and again in the fifth, he singled through short and third and brought in the final tally. The only extra-base hit of the game was made by Lynch, who socked out a two-sacker in the second.

Matters began to take on a serious aspect in the very first frame. Atkinson, first man up for the South Ends, singled sharply to center, but was out attempting to pilfer second. The next two men were easy outs. In the Y. M. C. I. half of the same inning, Gath got on by virtue of a single between short and third, but failed to get around when Liston and Cawley went out on flies.

Two Runs For Y. M. C. I.

The second was the big inning for the institute players. Lynch led off with a two-bagger to left center and Gath walked. Liston was credited with a hit when he attempted to sacrifice via a bunt down the first base line. The ball drew "Lefty" Tyler off the bag and left his position uncovered. There were three on. Cawley up. "Eddie" met a fast one and the ball grounded between Atkinson and Desmond for the run. Three men were left stranded in this frame.

The fourth loomed promising for the South Ends. Cahill banged one toward Gath at short, but the ball took a bad hop and bounded over that boy's head. Belleville singled to left, and the fireworks began when "Scud" Riley was rolled out by Umpire Bird on a foul third strike which "Jimmy" Liston's glove refused to let go of. Riley argued that he did not strike at the sphere, but it was evident that the ball tipped his bat and the rules say he was out on a technical strikeout. The controversy brought the wrath of the South Ends on Ump Bird, but play was resumed shortly, with the Y.M.C.I. scoring once again in the fifth.

Liston socked one down the third base line, the ball barely going over the bag in fair territory. Atkinson nailed the ball behind the station and threw wild to first, giving Liston an extra base as the ball went into the crowd. From second, "Jimmy" hotfooted it home on a single to left by Cawley and Y.M.C.I. was three runs to the berries.

It was in the fifth inning also that the South Ends looked best. After two were out, Falls and Tyler singled in rapid succession. Klutca came to bat and rapped a hot one in the direction of Desmond in right. The latter went after it at the crack of the bat and nailed the apple as it was about to descend into the crowded regions. The catch prevented a possible tie, as Tyler and Falls were ready to score. PAWTUCKET STARS CLAIM VICTORY

The Pawtucket Stars claim a victory over the Pawtucket Blues by forfeiture. In their game last night, the Blues left the field with the balls when the score was 4 to 0 in their favor in the sixth inning. In the frame, the Stars scored two runs and the tying tallies were on the bases when Farrell left the field with the two balls. He was not seen again. It is now a case of put up or shut up, say the Stars, who challenge the Blues to a game for five or ten dollars a side. The Stars also challenge any other 15-16-year-old teams in the city. Friday they will play the Iroquois on the Textile campus.

SHOOTS FATHER TO SAVE MOTHER'S LIFE

BOSTON, June 19.—Arthur J. Walsh, 17 years of age, shot his father, Richard Walsh, a toolmaker, early yesterday morning at their home, 29 Linden park street, Roxbury. Behind the barricaded door of their home the lad and his mother cowered while Walsh, who the police says, was intoxicated, tried to smash his way in, threatening to kill them both. The youth fired one shot from an army rifle through the door.

The father, with a bullet wound in his head, is at the City hospital. The physicians believe he will recover. The boy, who is a messenger for a State street brokerage house, has been arrested on the charge of assault with a loaded gun. He is out on bail until Thursday when he will be given a hearing in Roxbury court.

WILL TAKE OUT LIFE INSURANCE POLICIES

At a regular meeting of the Loomfixers' union held last evening in Trades & Labor hall with President J. E. Jemery in the chair, one hundred and fifty members of the organization signified their intention of taking out life insurance policies issued by the United Textile Workers of America.

These policies are for $250 and $500 and may be taken out by any member of a union affiliated with the Textile Workers of America without even passing a physical examination, and the premium on the said policies is very low. The policies will be issued next month and it is believed by the time they are ready the entire membership of the Loomfixers' union will subscribe. Routine business was transacted and it was voted to keep the charter open until the first Monday in July.

EXPECTS O'NEIL TO RETURN TO BRAVES

BOSTON, July 19—Judge Emil E. Fuchs, one of the owners of the Boston Nationals says he has every reason to believe that Mickey O'Neil, catcher, who left the team at St. Louis, will return in a few days.

"Mickey is a little inclined to become excited about small things," he said, "and I feel sure he will cool down and do the right thing when he has had a chance to think things over.

"Larry Kopf rather surprised me because I thought he would stay with the team at least until the first of the month and see if we couldn't fix up some deal whereby both he and the Braves might profit. He thinks he is through as a big leaguer and does not want to play with a minor league team."

DEFEATED BUT NOT DISGRACED

40,000 Fans Pay Tribute to Jimmy Wilde, Dethroned by Pancho Villa

Crowd Captivated by Little Welshman's Remarkable Exhibition of Gameness

Old Timers Reminded of Passing of "Battling" Nelson, Another Gamester

NEW YORK, June 19.—Jimmy Wilde yielded his title of world's champion flyweight boxer to Pancho Villa last night in a manner that the 40,000 who watched will remember while they live.

The 40,000 who sat in the Polo Grounds and saw the title pass were so captivated by the exhibition of gameness the little Welshman gave that for fully five minutes after it was over, they sat there, mostly quiet, waiting for him to open his eyes and come back to consciousness that he might hear the roar that was their sincere tribute to a genuine fighting man.

Wilde heard the greeting. His arms were tired, but he lifted them as a token; he shook his aching head and went to his wife who was waiting for him in his dressing room.

Villa, an unheard of Filipino more than a year ago, won because he obviously was the better man. Whether now at his very best he is a better man than "the mighty atom" he dethroned when Wilde was in his prime, is a matter for debate.

Old timers who saw the battle said it reminded them of the passing of "Battling" Nelson, the durable Dane, who was so game that he had to be counted out on his feet. Wilde was like that last night. Beaten to the point where the crowd asked that the punishment be stopped, helpless to either defend himself or attack, he yielded not an inch.

Flattened in Second

Wilde kept pressing forward throghout the fight. In the first round his chances of holding his crown seemed good, but when the bell rang in the second, he took a wallop on the chin that flattened him and he never got over the daze; Villa wouldn't let him. Wilde was beaten when the third round began and he was the loser the rest of the way, but he didn't seem to know it until he woke up.

"The glorious manner of his passing, the courageous way in which he waved aside requests that he stop and he saved the ignominy of a knockdown, dwarfed other aspects of the battle.

Mrs. Wilde saw her husband in what probably was his last fight. She sat in a row near the top of the saucer-like enclosure. When the sixth round came and she saw the end must be soon, she went down to his dressing room to wait, and she received him there.

"Well, it had to happen some time," was her comment. "We shall go home now and rest."

Wilde Received $60,000

Jimmy received about $60,000, 37½ per cent of the total receipts, and Villa about $20,000, 12½ per cent. The total receipts were about $160,000.

Villa occupies a peculiar pugilistic position. Though world's champion, he is not the American titleholder. He won the American title from Johnny Buff and then lost it to Frankie Genaro. He was matched to meet Wilde instead of Genaro because Promoter Tom O'Rourke believed the Filipino to be the better drawing card. Genaro has been assured a match with the winner of last night's bout.

"I have nothing but admiration for Wilde," Villa said. "He was one of the best."

Jimmie said Villa deserved to win. "I simply met my match," were his words. "I don't know whether I shall try to get a return bout. It's too early now to say that. It was the first knockout I ever suffered in my own class, and may be that means I'm getting too old. I don't know."

Hamel will attempt to annex his eighth straight game on this occasion. He has been pitching consistent ball for the Joffres all season.

The White Street Stars won a forfeit game from the Common All-Stars Sunday, claiming the game by the score of 9 to 0, when their opponents failed to put in an appearance at the alloted hour. The White Street Stars would like to arrange a game with the Beavers on the White street grounds next Thursday evening at 6.15 o'clock. Other teams may be accommodated by phoning 3432 and asking for Manager R. Dupont.

The Mysteries will play the Buffaloes Saturday on the South common on the Textile campus. All players are asked to report at 1.30 o'clock sharp. A game is also wanted with the St. Peter's Cadets.

The Beavers challenge any 9-12-year old teams in the city. A game is wanted for Saturday on the South common. Answer through this paper.

The Lisbon Juniors succumbed to the Y.M.H.A. Juniors at Lincoln park last Sunday by the score of 10 to 3. Cohen's pitching and Brand's batting featured. A large crowd witnessed the struggle.

The Ramblers defeated the Mohawks Sunday by the score of 7 to 4. Joyal pitched great ball for the winners. The Ramblers will meet the Old-Timers on the Chambers street playground this evening. Carroll will pitch for the Ramblers with Gleason on the receiving end.

SCHOOL OUTINGS ARE ORDER OF THE DAY

The children of St. Patrick's parochial school left Lowell at about 10 o'clock this morning in five special cars, bound for the summer home of the Sisters of Notre Dame at the old Nance O'Neil house in Tyngsboro. Sports were enjoyed during the morning and luncheon was served at noon on the beautiful and spacious lawn. After a rest period of about half an hour, the boys and girls played to suit themselves until time to return home.

The fifth grade students of the Greenhalge school are enjoying an outing today also. With their teachers, they left Lowell on a special car early this morning for Willowdale, where they enjoyed themselves to their hearts' content.

The fourth grade of the same school will hold their outing tomorrow in a grove near Hovey square.

Among the other outings scheduled for the near future is the outing of the First Universalist church at Canobie lake park on June 28 and the outing of All Souls church at Nabnasset on next Saturday.

WORLD'S CHAMPIONS END SLUMP AND TURN BACK CARDINALS 4 TO 1

30,000 FANS SEE B. C. WIN OVER HOLY CROSS, 4 TO 1

Triple by Tom Phillips With Three on in the Second Inning Brought Victory to Eagles—McCrehan Hurls Great Game—Carroll's Wildness Fatal

BOSTON, June 19—Boston college is one point nearer the collegiate baseball championship of the east. Its representatives on the diamond yesterday afternoon at Braves Field, before the greatest crowd that ever saw a college game, evened up the series with their greatest rivals, Holy Cross, by winning, 4 to 1, the same score as in Boston college's only other recent baseball win over the Purple, in 1918, at Worcester. The victory was all the sweeter because no longer can the boys from the Heart of the Commonwealth say they have only to play in Boston to win. It was the first time that the maroon and old gold colors have waved over the Holy Cross purple in Boston, and naturally the joy was without bounds, for it means that the two teams will battle again in the third game, which is to be played at Fitton Field, Worcester, Saturday afternoon.

As in all contests between these great rivals, the enthusiasm was vociferous, and there was plenty of glory for the Boston college men, for in the four opportunities that were given them to bang in runs, the necessary blow was delivered twice.

The big crowd, 27,544 paid admissions, but well over 30,000, counting everyone, saw the supposedly greatest of all college baseball pitchers, Owen Carroll of Holy Cross, maltreated by the war clubs of the heavy-hitting men from Newton Heights as he had been at no other time this season.

McCrehan Hurls Finely

The victory went to the team that deserved it. It played the better ball. Frank McCrehan, who finished the first game at Worcester and did not allow a hit, started where he left off. He was at his best, his slow ball working so well that the Worcester boys were stopped in their tracks. McCrehan was as cool as the proverbial cucumber, while the spectators looked on and sweltered. He was master of the situation all the way. But he had to have help and this was liberally given by Tommy Phillips, a Worcester boy, who pickled the ball for a triple to centerfield that spelled defeat for Holy Cross. It was music for the boy who returned home last night. Tony Comerford, about to graduate, delivered the other dent that sent Holy Cross out of the picture.

An idea of how well McCrehan was going in the box can better be gained from the fact that of the two men who reached third base, only one was able to get over. The pitcher, who apparently had been held in reserve for crucial games, was nicked for four hits, only one of which went to the outfield. The others were blows that the infielders knocked down but could not handle. He fanned only one man, Glennon, the football player who was so brilliant for the Worcester college last fall. He only walked two men.

On the other hand, Carroll started off as if he was going to breeze through a winner. He began by striking three men out in the first inning, but not until he had been nicked for a double by "Chuck" Darling, who was the batting star of the day, with three hits to his credit out of as many times at bat.

In the second inning Carroll continued to use his fast ball, and by alternating strikeouts and passes he soon had the bases full with two out. It was here that Tommy Phillips slashed his wicked drive to centerfield that cleaned the bases.

From then on Carroll changed his tactics and used more curved balls and a better change of pace. He, however, was in trouble in the seventh, when three singles in a row added another run for Boston college and put the game beyond the reach of the Holy Cross men.

Carroll was wild, he passed six men and hit another, and these offset his strike outs, of which he had eight to his credit. The score:

BECKETT-CARPENTIER BOUT

DEMPSEY SEEMS TO HAVE LOST OLD-TIME PUNCH

By BOB NORMAN
N. E. A. Service Writer

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 19—Is Jack Dempsey slipping?

That is the question that is today causing more than one heated argument among the patrons of the fight game in these parts.

In the Dempsey camp confidence runs high. No one appears to question the ability of the champion to take care of his Fourth of July opponent.

His sparring partners are loud in their praise of Dempsey's work. Kearns talks confidently of future matches.

But—

Jack's workouts have disappointed more than one of his ardent admirers.

Old Kayo Punch Missing

He has been the target for the punches of sparring partners who would have been easy marks for the Dempsey that brought Willard low.

More than once has the crimson flowed from Jack's face during the few workouts that he has held in the past three weeks.

The old kayo punch that caused a steady stream of human punching bags to flow in and out of the Dempsey camp during the training periods of previous fights, has been conspicuous by its absence.

True, he has dropped several of his trainers. But they have bounced off the floor immediately. Very different from Toledo, Benton Harbor and Atlantic City.

Thinks Gibbons Better

The Italian, Rocco Stramgalgia, who was fired from the Dempsey camp for opening a cut over the champ's eye by butting (though there are many who saw the incident who claim it was a hard, right-hand punch that did the damage) is now aiding Gobbons to condition himself.

After his first workout with Gibbons, I asked him to compare the two men. He said:

"Gibbons hit me four times to Dempsey's once. He is much the faster man of the two, in my opinion. Dempsey's punches hurt the most, but at that they were not of the knockout variety. But probably neither of the two were putting all they could on their blows."

But fans who saw Dempsey tear into the Italian after he had cut his eye open, are of the opinion that Jack was leveling. If so, the champion's punch would seem to have lost much of its former power.

And if Jack has lost the terrific punching ability that made him one of the most feared titleholders in the history of the ring, the Fourth of July may see a new heavyweight king crowned.

For Dempsey's sole defense has always been the tearing, crushing attack that earned him the title "The Tiger of the Ring."

BIG REGATTA ON HUDSON JUNE 28

CHAMPIONSHIP OF CITY

Golfers From Three Local Clubs to Gather at Long Meadow Today

The second round of the city golf championship, which got away to such an auspicious start a week ago at Mt. Pleasant, will be played this afternoon at Long Meadow, with the same representatives from the three local clubs slashing away for honors.

As on the first day of play, the tournament players will be sent away from the first tee in three-somes, with the first trio driving off promptly at 4 o'clock.

A large gallery is expected to watch the play and tournament officials have made arrangements to handle an unusually bulky crowd. The Long Meadow course is in first class condition from tee to cup throughout the nine-hole journey and low scoring ought to prevail, with many of the city's best club swingers in line for honors.

Marshall Forrest, Jr., with a round of 73 at Mt. Pleasant a week ago, will be in there shooting for another low score to help along his aggregate, but there are others hot on his trail and it is expected that a half dozen or more players will be closely bunched when today's play ends.

What is the difference in scoring in medal and match play in golf? Have players the right to concede a putt in medal play?

In match play you win a hole if you make it in fewer strokes than your opponent. Since the result is decided on the number of holes won, the total score for your round is not important. It is not compulsory to play out a hole if you feel that you are certain to lose it. You can end the play for that hole by simply conceding it to your opponent. It is entirely different in medal play, where your scoring must be continuous from the first tee until the last green and you must have a score for every hole. A player has no right to concede a putt in medal play, it being compulsory to sink the putt in every case.

Getting on the green on his third shot, the player making same discovers that his ball is lodged against the flagstick in the hole. How should such a situation be handled?

The flagstick must be carefully removed in order to permit the ball to roll in, if the flagstick had prevented such a happening. If the ball does not fall into the cup, it calls for another putt. If the ball had dropped in when the flagstick had been removed it would have saved another stroke.

Is it permissible to have someone stand at the hole to mark it for you? Is there any penalty if your ball strikes the person standing at the hole marking it for you?

A player has the right to have some one stand at the hole as a guide for his next shot. Usually the caddie does this. If the ball strikes the person marking the hole, you lose the hole in match play and are penalized two strokes in medal play.

BALL GAME TONIGHT ON TEXTILE CAMPUS

Mayor John J. Donovan will start the ball rolling in the Central Massachusetts Twilight league at Textile campus tonight, in the opening fracas between the Salem Town team and "Billy" Marcotte's C.M.A.C. representatives, comprising the pick of the Twilight league and several imports. Steve Patten, the Boston college star, who appeared on the mound for Lizzie Murphy's All-Stars in their 4 to 1 victory over the Highland Daylights last week, or Fitzgerald, the Cambridge Knights of Columbus heaver, will be on the mound for the Lowell team. Fitzgerald pitched against the Abbots at Graniteville Saturday, and lost 5 to 2, on account of a bad opening inning.

Freeman will do the receiving, Conners will play first, John Smith second, Dee Short, Boulger third, Loftus left, Bridgford center and Liston or Pare right field. This team is one of the best assembled in Lowell for some time, and it ought to hold its own with the later-collegiate Salem team. Al Davis and Leo Woodman, in addition to Owen Carroll, the Holy Cross phenom, have been signed for the Salem pitching assignments. Other players are: McLeod c, Wentworth cf, Joyce 3b, Phillips 2b, Nash lf, O'Connor rf, and several others of similar calibre. Nash is the former St. Louis American league player and now Tufts college coach. Wentworth and O'Connor are University of New Hampshire players. The club possesses considerable batting strength, Joyce being one of the cleverest hitters along the North Shore, since the semi-pro days of Stuffy McInnis.

All home games will be played Tuesdays and Saturdays. In order not to conflict with the Lowell Twilight league contests. In addition there will be two games away from home each week. If the attendance warrants, one of the strongest clubs played in the field since the old days of the New England league will represent Lowell in this circuit, announces Manager Marcotte.

Games scheduled this week are as follows:

Salem at Lowell.
Gardner at Graniteville.
GAMES WEDNESDAY

GAMES THURSDAY

Puzzling Plays
By Billy Evans

The Play

There were runners on first and third when a batter hit a low liner back at the pitcher.

The pitcher was off his stride and had no chance to make a play on the ball. It struck directly in front of the pitching rubber, and on the first snappy bound, hit the rubber.

Like a flash it bounded over the foul line between home and third. Had it continued on its way it would have been good for at least a double. The runner on third scored, the runner on first went to third, and the batsman reached second before the ball was gotten back into the infield.

What about such a play?

The Interpretation

The ball was foul. The runners should have been sent back to their respective bases and the batter made to hit over again.

The definition of a fair hit ball says it must settle between home and first or home and third, or is in fair territory when bounding to the outfield past first or third.

In this case the ball hit the pitcher's box and then crossed the foul line between third and home and finally settling in foul territory, thereby making it a foul.

FAILURE OF REGULAR TWIRLERS GIVES RYAN CHANCE TO STAR

Young Pitcher Leads Giants to Their First Victory in Seven Starts—Pirates But Two and a Half Games Behind Champs—Tigers Win Over Yankees, White Sox Beat Athletics

NEW YORK, June 19.—Viewing the failure of his regular twirlers, Manager McGraw of the New York Giants decided to use Eddi Ryan to start a game yesterday, instead of constantly keeping him in reserve, and the world's champions won their first game in seven starts, the ambitious St. Louis Cardinals getting only five hits off his slants. The score was 4 to 1.

Pittsburgh, which took the opener from Boston, 8 to 3, is only two and one half games behind the Giants and the Pirates are being hard pressed by the speeding Cincinnati Reds, who returned to the winning column by evening the series with Brooklyn, 6 to 3.

The Philadelphia Quakers after their surprising showing against Pittsburgh last week, fell down before Chicago, 9 to 3, and the Cubs are within less than half a game of the Robins, who kept them out of the first division last week.

The Philadelphia Athletics yesterday had another chance to shorten the gap between themselves and the New York Yankees, but they lost to the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 5.

Ty Cobb's hitters made Murderers' Row of the Yankees look gentle by comparison in winning yesterday's game, 11 to 3, evening the series.

The Tigers need to win again today to keep in the first division as the St. Louis Browns won both games of a double header from Boston, 6-2 and 9-0 and are just one point behind.

Washington beat Cleveland, 4 to 3, in 13 innings.

VANDENHECKE MURDER TRIAL

Mrs. Bayart, Wife of Gislian Schureman, When He Was Murdered, Testifies

Admits Living With Accused But Claims She Did So Under Threats

LAWRENCE, June 19.—Mrs. Sophie Schuremann Bayart, who was the wife of Gislian Schuremann when he was murdered here in August, 1918, was the chief witness today against Cyrille Vandenhecke now on trial in superior court for the murder. She said that she had been familiar with Vandenhecke and admitted going to Philadelphia to live with him. She went, however, because he threatened to kill her if she refused, she said. She said that when her husband went to Philadelphia for her, she willingly returned with him because she loved him.

She said she was in another room when her husband was shot and that Vandenhecke after shooting her husband, fired two shots at her, but that he merely grazed her shoulder. Under cross-examination she denied having told the police that her husband had committed suicide.

Dist. Atty. William C. Clark in his opening, told the jurors that he would produce witnesses from Philadelphia who had heard Vandenhecke say that he was going to Lawrence to get the woman away from her husband again and that he would kill anyone who prevented him.

Y. M. C. A. SECRETARY THROWN FROM HORSE

E. Harrison Hood, assistant boys' secretary at the Y.M.C.A., suffered a broken arm and a dislocated shoulder as a result of being thrown from a horse while in charge of a party of boys at Camp Nabnasset Saturday. He was taken to the Lowell General hospital where it is reported that he is resting comfortably.

Mr. Hood was in charge of a party of boys in the Highland club group who were using horses loaned by Battery B and had ridden to the camp for the week-end. Clarence E. Towne who had driven to the camp in his machine for a swim shortly before the accident happened, drove the injured man to the hospital.

START WORK ON BASEBALL DIAMOND

Work was started yesterday on the laying out of a baseball diamond on the Woodward avenue playground in Pawtucketville. Employes of the park department are plowing the land, while others are grading. Supt. Kernan stated today that it will be a couple of weeks before baseball can be resumed on the grounds, but he said the boys of the district are satisfied to lay off for a couple of weeks as long as the diamond will be put in shape. Mr. Kernan also stated that although supervisors will care for the children on that spot this summer, no apparatus will be installed there for the present.

How To Forget Troubles

TROUBLES knock up your system like Jack Dempsey knocks down his opponent.

Troubles deal blows both in the head and stomach—and they hurt the stomach more than they do the head!

Troubles give the stomach indigestion, slow up the liver—and then follow constipation and biliousness.

The way to get rid of troubles is to invigorate digestion, stimulate liver and bowels and tone up the entire system. The best way to do this—has been for the past 80 years—is to take Beecham's Pills.

Then you will feel so good that "troubles" become merely problems, to be solved readily by the clear, keen brain of health.

HUGHES URGES WORLD COURT

Secretary of State Speaker at Dartmouth College Commencement Exercises

Constitutes Tribunal With Standards That Conform to Our Highest Courts

HANOVER, N. H., June 19—The permanent court of international justice constitutes a tribunal with standards "that conform to our highest courts," Secretary Hughes said here today, speaking at the alumni gathering in connection with commencement exercises at Dartmouth college.

"I make bold to say," Mr. Hughes said, "that the United States could today with greater satisfaction submit disputes to which it is a party to this court than to any arbitral tribunal it would be possible to set up."

Mr. Hughes applauded "the increasing interest in foreign peoples and our relations with them" now evident in the United States, but said that if this interest was not to serve merely to promote the constant endeavors of propagandists or of radical groups, it must have its support in a careful study of history" and the understanding of other nations and their conditions which the colleges should provide.

"In our foreign relations we desire peace, security and co-operation," said the secretary. "Would that the spirit of America had one voice, one message; but there is a babel of voices, a confusion of tongues. If danger threatens us, we happily stand united; but when we are least concerned as to our own safety, we are most divided in our counsels. But allowing for all the inevitable differences, it is too much to expect that we should have one controlling voice, one dominant message as to the fundamentals? We are intent on peace, and because of this the United States can never refuse its support to institutions of justice.

Two Classes of Controversies

"We recognize that there are two classes of controversies which may lead to strife. There are the conflicts of national interest; of political expediency, of rival policies where there is no agreement, no recognized determining principle; no governing rule of law which may be invoked. Here we are bound to recognize the rights of other states, equal members of the family of nations as we unfailingly insist upon our own. It was said by one of our great statesmen that the foreign policy of the United States may be described as the Monroe Doctrine and the golden rule. We shall achieve our highest aims of helpfulness when we think as much of the latter as we properly think of the former.

"Helpfulness is not meddlesomeness and does not consist in attempts to intrude uninvited decisions in controversies that are not ours. Our friendly offices are always available when they are welcome and can properly be given, but it must be remembered that friendship is to continue.

"But in that class of controversies where there are treaties to carry out and commonly accepted principles and rules of international law to apply, we have a manifest duty. That duty is to maintain the sanctity of international engagements; to aid in securing the impartial adjustment of differences, and thus to insure the adequate administration of international justice.

"It happens that at this time there exists and is functioning, a permanent court of international justice, equipped with a permanent body of jurists as well qualified for their task as any judges that could be chosen—men whose character and equipment permits no charge of partiality or disqualification. They constitute an independent tribunal with the standards, the tenure of office and the equipment that conform to the standards of our highest courts. In truth, they constitute in fact as well as in name an actual court of justice.

"There is no path to the millenium other than the path of justice, and if we discard the best attainable instrumentalities of justice to that extent we invite the decisions of the sword. The true methods of promoting international accord is to seek to avert the clash of interests by agreement and to have agreements fairly interpreted and carried out."

Identifies Bandits

masquerading as one or the other at different times.

The suspect was identified by the smiling expression which Mrs. Tosmer said the bandit assumed until almost the instant of firing the shot that killed Tosmer. But the prisoner has brown eyes, while the widow said the killer's eyes were blue, but today she said she probably had been mistaken. She positively declared, however, that Mrs. Carrick, or Thompson, was the killer.

Carrick, Miss Marie Clark and a man known only as John Doe also were taken into custody.

When the police raided the flat they found a quantity of women's apparel, a number of wigs and a loaded revolver. The murder suspect's main name was obtained from an automobile identification card. The police declared the disclosure of the prisoner's double identity may help to clear up a number of robberies and other crimes.

HARVARD BOY SUFFERED LOSS OF MEMORY

CAMBRIDGE, June 19.—Verner Warren Clapp of Washington, D. C. a first year graduate student at Harvard university, who disappeared on May 17 under circumstances which at first led to the belief that he had been drowned, is now with his father. Mrs. C. C. Jones, at whose home here he roomed with other students, said today that he had returned with the explanation that he had suffered a loss of memory and knew nothing of his movements between the time he went swimming in the Charles river basin on the day of his disappearance and the day when he came to himself in a town in Connecticut.

She said that he appeared to be in good health and that his memory had completely returned.

NOT TOO HOT FOR FUR NECKPIECES

No fur coats were seen on the street today, although occasionally one ran across a dainty miss sporting a marten or opossum choker, one of Dame Fashion's edicts for the summer, no matter how hot. The thermometer in the square touched 92 degrees at 1 o'clock.

These fur neckpieces, by the way, do not seem to have the depressing effect one might anticipate. Quite the opposite, for one is conscious of a considerable degree of envy as he looks at one, envy of the person who is able to wear it and still retain an atmosphere of comfort and sang-froid, with a snap of the fingers as the only comment upon sky-high temperatures.

However, with or without these snappy contraptions of sleek fur, the day was hot enough for any lover of summer and except from an elevated position, such as our office window, for instance, whatever breeze there was seemed sultry and of little relief.

crews, under seal, provided the doctor in charge chooses to regard the intoxicants so carried as "medicinal."

A letter sent yesterday by Secretary Mellon to the public health service constitutes a construction of medicinal provisions of the law and makes sure that all foreign laws requiring ships to carry medicinal liquors will be complied with.

By these instructions, a ship's doctor may make a sworn statement as to the liquors they deem necessary for medicinal purposes, and public health offices will not dispute their opinion.

The letter is not regarded at the treasury as changing any section of the regulations as recently promulgated to carry out the findings of the supreme court. It is conceded, however, that it will work for elasticity in the regulatory provisions.

COOLIDGE AT NORTON

Says Present Need of Country is Extension of Benefits of Liberal Culture

NORTON, June 19.—The present great need of this country is an extension of the direct benefits of a liberal culture, Vice President Calvin Coolidge said in an address which he came here today to deliver at the Wheaton college commencement. He told the young women of the graduating class that the modern ideal of universal education could not be realized for a considerable length of time, and that this left "somewhat of the old necessary duty of service and leadership imposed upon those who have been fortunate enough to secure the advantages of the higher institutions of learning."

One of the chief requirements of the liberally educated of the present day said the vice president, was that they should contribute to a better art of living.

"This era," he continued, "has come to be recognized as the scientific age. On this side of life the world is wildly alive and thoroughly interested. It is making larger and larger demands of the schools, of the press and of every other avenue that provides technical skill and scientific knowledge.

"Yet, when success in this direction is not secured, or, being secured, it fails somehow to satisfy there is a tendency to begin to criticize our institutions and the standards of society, as though they were in some way to blame. Some times this goes so far as to advocate a complete change in the attitude of the government towards property rights. More generally this takes the form of some proposal for extended control and regulation and a radical change in the theory of taxation. The fundamental purpose sought in these proposals is said to be more equal distribution of the results of industry. Our country is an exceedingly good example of the fact that if production be encouraged and increased then distribution fairly well takes care of itself.

"It is not on this side of our life that we need to put the emphasis at the present time. We have looked to our industries. We have looked to our government. We may well let a season of adjustment and experience disclose the results of the theories which have been adopted in the past 40 years. The time appears to have arrived when we may more properly look to the people, when natural laws may well be left to supplement artificial laws. In complete freedom of action the people oftentimes have a more effective remedy than can be supplied by government interference. Individual initiative in the long run is a firmer reliance than bureaucratic supervision. We do not need more government, we need more culture. We do not need more law, we need more religion."

The Leviathan Sails

night aboard the Leviathan, while others waited until today.

Rumors that an injunction might be sought in the federal courts here to prevent the sailing of the Leviathan could not be confirmed.

One of the shipping board crowded the [illegible] of the excursion steamer King Philip when she left Commonwealth pier at noon to go down to the Leviathan. The King Philip was dressed in holiday colors with all the flags in her lockers on display and there was much cheering from the crowd on the pier as she pulled out into the stream. The Leviathan was expected to sail soon after the transfer of passengers from the excursion boat had been completed.

Longshoremen Strike

Because they were denied opportunity to go down on the tender and [illegible] the Leviathan at anchor near Graves Light, 20 longshoremen engaged to handle luggage [illegible] went on strike. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 19—Prices were shaded again at the opening of the stock market today with declines in some of the representative shares reaching large proportions. Crucible Steel fell 1½ points, despite the resumption of dividend payments at an annual rate of $4. Baldwin dropped 1¼ to a new low price for the year.

Large offerings of oil shares, particularly the high priced issues, encouraged more aggressive short selling in other portions of the list. More than a dozen stocks established new minimum prices, including Pan-American A and B, Gulf States Steel and American Sugar. Losses ranging from one to three points were registered by a number of popular issues. Foreign exchanges opened slightly higher, demand sterling being quoted at $4.62¼, francs at 6.19½, and German marks at .0006⅞.

Strong resistance shown by U. S. Steel around yesterday's closing price and distribution of supporting orders in other stocks brought about a sharp rally after the early selling orders had been absorbed. Baldwin rallied two points from its early low and Studebaker, Chandler, Stewart-Warner, Willys-Overland preferred, American Can, Bethlehem Steel, Corn Products, New York Central and Atchison sold 1 to 2 points above yesterday's final quotations. Much of this buying apparently was based on the speculative belief that the recent action had been overdone and that technical conditions warranted a rally. Call money opened at 5 per cent.

Official denial by stock exchange authorities that any brokerage houses were in difficulties had a good effect on sentiment for a time, but the recognized leaders began to yield again on further liquidation of the low priced oils and other minor shares. Jersey Central dropped 15½ points, Marland Oil 4, Consolidated Cigar 3, and Delaware, Lackawana and Lorillard dropped 2¾ each.

The closing was heavy. Speculators for the decline increased their offerings in the late dealings and forced several of the leaders to their lowest prices of the year, U. S. Steel touching 92¼.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton

THE BROWNIE MAN TAKES A NAP

THERE WAS MR. PIM, THE BROWNIE MAN.

Everybody had the best time at the Ragsies' ball.

The bull-frog orchestra with the wood-pecker drumming the drums, played fine dance music.

The Twins in their magic shoes thought they had never had such a good time.

The Moon Man grinned, the stars winked, and the clouds stood still to watch. Never had the meadow been so gay.

Suddenly Rag Tag, the Raggy, pointed overhead to a hole in the old chestnut tree. "Look!" he whispered. "There is a bird's sharp bill sticking out! Someone was too lazy to come to our party!"

"The very idea!" cried Mister Tatters indignantly. "I do believe it is Mister Flicker, for that's where he lives."

"I've got an idea," said Rag Tag. "Let's climb the tree and push him inside and plaster the hole up with mud. Then he can't get out until we are ready to let him. It may teach him a lesson in manners."

"Good," laughed Mister Tatters. "Nancy and Nick, you do it, will you?"

The Twins didn't want to very much, but after all it was only a joke and wouldn't last long, so up they climbed in their magic shoes.

Pretty soon they slid down. "It's all done," they said to Mister Tatters.

Suddenly Nancy cried, "Why, there's Mister Flicker over there!"

"Then who can the other be? Please go at once and look," said the Raggy Man.

So up went the Twins again and dug out the mud.

There was Mr. Pim Pim, the Brownie Man.

"I got so tired, I climbed up here for forty winks," he yawned, "and someone shut me in."

"Oh, we're so sorry," apologized Nancy. "But we thought the peak on your cap was Mister Flicker's sharp bill."

"I'll forgive you this time," smiled the kind little Brownie man.

BIG DEMAND FOR BOOKS ON RADIO AT LIBRARY

The radio bug has made its presence known at the city library with the result that technical and non-technical books on wireless telephony are in greater demand than any other non-fiction books there. A waiting list has been established for these books, so great is the demand, and within the past year, since the radio became within the reach of the ordinary non-technical person, many new books on this subject have been added to the library's already large supply.

Next to the radio books in the demand for non-fiction comes Well's "History of Mankind," and there is also a steady demand for biographies that have been published but recently. "The Man from Maine" is the most popular of these and it is almost impossible to get a copy of it without waiting for several weeks.

Fiction has always been the big drawing card at the library and this year is no different from other years. Recent fiction is always in demand and the old favorite authors such as Peter B. Kyne, Oliver Curwood and Zane Grey, have not diminished one iota in popularity during the many years that they have been writing novels.

Plumbers will begin work on a sanitary system at the camp tomorrow and within a week or so the entire equipment will be ready for use. A number of new cot beds will be purchased, as several of the ones used last year have been broken.

The purchase of the No. 3 mill of the Bigelow-Hartford plant in Market st. by Mark McCann, announced some time ago, will not materialize, for instead of purchasing the building and land Mr. McCann has taken out a long term lease on the property.

The property is owned by J. Murray Howe of Boston, and it is understood that after preliminary papers for its transfer to Mr. McCann had been signed, Mr. Howe offered good inducements to the purchaser for a lease and the terms of the agreement were changed. Mr. McCann has also leased the lot of land adjoining the mill building with a frontage on Market street and will build a modern salesroom there. He has already begun a complete renovation of the mill building for garage and storage. The lease was effected through the office of T. H. Elliott.

MEETING OF THE PARK COMMISSION

The board of park commissioners held a special meeting last night at 5.30 o'clock with Clarence M. Weed, chairman, Alexander Rountree and Harvey B. Greene present.

A vote had been prepared by the city solicitor in regard to the payment of $600 to William E. Cawley for loss of the rights of lease of the buildings formerly known as the Wiggin property on the First street parkway. This vote was accepted without any discussion.

At the request of Councilor Arthur B. Chadwick, the city solicitor also had prepared a vote in regard to the seizure of land in the rear of the Charles W. Morey school for playground purposes, the total cost to be $712. This money has already been appropriated by the city council and all that was necessary before the land should be seized was the approval of the park commissioners. This vote was also accepted.

A set of rules was drawn up by the park commissioners outlining what branches of the playground work shall come under the school department and what shall come under the park department. This has been drawn up as a result of the conference held at the last meeting between these two departments and will be given to the school committee for their approval. A letter explaining certain details of the recommendations shall be sent also. As soon as the school department has an opportunity to vote on this proposition, it will be made public.

Bids for the completion of the riverbank wall on the First street parkway were called for some time ago and were returnable yesterday at noon. Only one local contractor, John A. Simpson, entered a bid. As his bid was but $5.00 a yard the commission voted to award the contract to him.

It was also voted that the girl playground supervisors should wear a regular playground uniform, the design of which will be decided in the near future.

Supt. John A. Kernan was instructed to get prices on backstops for the two tennis courts that are now being installed on the North common.

Mr. Pillman of Ayer, who formerly ran an establishment on property owned by himself on land leased from the Locks and Canals on Riverside street, appeared before the board to find out what attitude the city would take towards reimbursing him for his buildings when the time came for their seizure. No action was taken on this matter and the meeting adjourned.

Bank Forced to Close

stitution 17 years, the last one as cashier.

The relatively large defalcation was explained in part by the fact that the bank held what was said to be in excess of one million dollars in Wichita school bonds. Drumm is alleged to have used these and other bonds as collateral to float personal loans for investment in oil ventures. Drumm was in charge of the bond department of the bank.

Criminal action was deferred pending an investigation by the state bank commissioner.

The bank's surplus is listed at $250,000, its surplus, undivided profits and an equity in the bank building are said to be $475,000.

W. N. Richards, president of the institution, expressed belief that depositors would suffer no loss.

Wholesale broom corn interests of Wichita were said to be the heaviest depositors. The bank held state deposits of nearly $25,000.

Drumm is said to have invested considerable sums in the Sayer oil fields of northern Oklahoma.

Drumm could not be found after the defalcation was announced. His mother said he was spending the night with friends. According to clearing house officials Drumm said that all personal properties would be turned over to the bank.

RAILROADS MAKING GOOD

R. H. Newcomb Says Feeling Roads Are Not Functioning is Too General

The feeling which is becoming all too general in this country that the railroads are not functioning, which R. H. Newcomb, executive's assistant of the Boston & Maine R. R. told the members of the Lowell Ad club at their regular meeting last night at Lakeview park was a false notion, was counteracted by the speaker to some extent by a clear statement of facts as to just what the railroads are doing.

Mr. Newcomb pointed out that transportation is a distinct manufacturing business in itself, yet necessary to every man's existence. The production units that go to make up this manufacturing plant are locomotives and cars, track and yard layouts, and such shop facilities as are required for the prompt and proper handling of this equipment.

The manufactured product is transportation, sold in units of ton miles and passenger miles. The sale of these units is the source of revenue. If the plant is to function properly and increase its facilities with the demands of increasing business, then there must be a wide enough margin between cost of production and selling prices to insure financial stability.

The speaker declared that the railroads are now taking care of more traffic than ever before in history. During the week of May 26 he said a total of 1,014,029 cars were loaded with revenue freight. This total is not only by far the largest loading ever reported for a single week at this season of the year, but has been surpassed only twice before for any week in any year in history, both of which were in the fall when traffic is always heaviest due to crop movement.

Moreover, the railroads of the country anticipate a still larger development. Realizing this, he said the Boston & Maine R. R. has ordered within the past year 42 locomotives, 93 steel cars for passenger train service and 600 new freight cars. With the program as laid out by all the roads of the country, this effort bears the same relation to the whole as the B. & M. mileage bears to the total mileage of the United States.

The roadway program for this year on the B. & M. contemplates the laying of 20,000 tons of rail, the placing of 1,250,000 new ties, the ballasting of some 100 miles of track, the strengthening of several bridges and some yard changes at Boston and Ayer. All this will cost $12,500,000.

The speaker also gave some very interesting figures relative to business in New England. Besides an increase of 32 per cent. in population in 15 years, from 5,592,027 in 1905 to 7,400,000 in 1920, Mr. Newcomb quoted statistics showing that from 1904 to 1919 the capital invested in manufacturing industry in New England had increased from $1,800,000,000 to $2,671,000,000. The products of these same institutions had increased from $3,025,000,000 to $7,183,000,000, and the number of wage earners increased during that 15-year period from 950,000 to 1,288,389.

BEGINS ERECTION OF MIXING PLANT

The Nashoba Construction Co., awarded the contract to furnish bituminous paving material to the city this summer, today began the erection of its mixing plant on land owned by John Brady in back of the Harvard brewery buildings. By Thursday it is expected the plant will be in readiness to turn out between 1000 and 1200 square yards of material a day.

The erection of the plant is in charge of Mark Joyce, plant superintendent of the Nashoba Co., recently returned from Equador where he was engaged for three years in road construction work.

The material turned out at the plant will be hauled to jobs in process by four Mack trucks, owned by the Nashoba concern. The first job to be tackled is West Sixth street and ought to be completed within seven days after a start is made.

EXHIBITION OF DRAWING AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

An exhibition of drawing will be held in the high school on Thursday, June 21, from 3.30 to 5.30 p. m., and on Friday, June 22, from 3.30 to 5.30. This exhibition will be the first of its kind held in the high school and will be under the direction of Miss Georgia L. Blaisdell, instructor of drawing.

The exhibit includes pencil light and shade, charcoal light and shade, color pure and applied, design pure and applied, posters, school paper headings, pastel and water color work, pen and ink drawing, pencil drawings for work made in sewing, place cards, paper flowers, favors for table decoration, silhouette cut-out pictures framed and basket of reed and bookcovers.

The work this year connects with the work in the home economics department, with some specials coming in with these pupils. Later it is planned to have the drawing work in the Normal. Textile manual training and commercial courses. In the Normal and Textile courses the work is to connect with that done in the Normal and Textile schools. The commercial course in the high school is sending pupils out to positions where knowledge and ability to do commercial advertising will add greatly to their interest in their work and income.

Ninety-one pupils in the commercial department of the high school entered the annual contest for the purpose of determining which school reaches the highest standard as to accuracy and artistic qualities in writing Gregg shorthand, that is conducted by the Gregg Publishing company.

Every one of the 91 qualified for the certificate that is awarded only to those whose notes reach a very high standard, Miss Elizabeth Ortner, one of the 91, was awarded a gold ring for turning in the best of the number and 44 won honorable mention.

As a special prize, Mr. Orton E. Beach, head of the shorthand department in the school and Miss Ida L. Samuels, a teacher in the department, each received fine leather bound De Luxe editions of the Gregg manual, lettered in gold, accompanied by congratulations upon the high standard reached by their pupils. These prizes are awarded to teachers whose clubs are just below the first and second prize winners.

The pupils who submitted papers are all members of the senior class of the school and have shown exceptional quality in all their work throughout the year. Some of them have already gone out to positions and others will be recommended for good positions in the near future.

The Gregg Writer, the official publication of the Gregg Publishing company, in commenting on the results of the contest says as follows:

"A fine club was submitted by Mr. Orton E. Beach and Miss Ida Samuels, of the Lowell high school. There were 91 papers submitted, ranking very high in quality, 44 meriting honorable mention. Mr. Beach is one of our old enthusiasts, and always submits a fine large club, but this year the work is far superior to that of any previous year, and we believe that with the same good progress next year, Lowell high will win one of the banners."

Rotarians Guests of Gas Company

was transacted. It was announced that next Tuesday evening will be Rotary Night at the "Pops" concert in Symphony hall, Boston, and names of local members who intend to attend the affair were taken so that reservations might be made for them.

At the close of the dinner, C. R. Prichard, general manager of the gas company, outlined the various phases in the manufacture of both coal and water gas, and the different processes through which the coal goes before it becomes coke for the retail trade.

Then the group was broken up into several small groups and each was headed by an employe of the gas company who was fully capable of answering any questions which the Rotarians asked and could also describe the many machines and processes used in the manufacture of gas. It was an extremely warm day for the trip and many a stiff white collar was wilted beyond recognition by the time the Rotarians had passed through only part of the plant. The trip was greatly enjoyed, however, and the Rotarians were profuse in their thanks to Mr. Prichard and the men who had shown them the mysteries of the manufacture of gas.

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

Armand Martin, charged with assault and battery on an eight-year-old girl, was ordered held in $500 until tomorrow, when his case was called in the district court this morning. The victim of the assault testified that she was playing in her yard last Sunday morning when defendant, a neighbor and married, called her into his house. He motioned her to a side room, she said, and when he laid his hands on her she hollered for help. He then let her go and told her not to tell her mother and offered her 50 cents to bind the bargain. Going to the street she informed a policeman of the incident and Martin was placed under arrest. The continuance to tomorrow was granted to await the examination of the mental condition of the defendant by the city physician.

Irene Vaillancourt, 17, and Corinne Vaillancourt, 19, charged with being stubborn children, were placed on straight probation for a term of one year each. Their mother claimed that they had a tendency toward leaving home at regular intervals and not informing her of their whereabouts. The two girls said their actions were prompted by an aunt who lived with her mother and who was continually scolding them. The court suggested that the aunt remove her living quarters apart from the defendants.

Arthur Bouvin, claiming residence in Mexico, was arrested for drunkenness by Officer Patrick J. Carey yesterday after he had broken a window in Market street. A suspended sentence of two months in the house of correction was imposed.

He paid $15 and then payments stopped. When no word was forthcoming from him, a capias was issued and he appeared in court this morning. His wife told the court that the family had been visited with sickness of late and Judge Enright ordered a remittance of the remaining $5 due.

George Brady, on an assault and battery charge, was continued until tomorrow morning under bonds of $300.

A suspended sentence of five months in the house of correction was imposed on Edward Lachance, charged with non-support, the sentence to take effect if he fails to contribute $7 weekly to his wife's support.
